Fear island flooding as river nears crest

By GARY SCHNEIDER
and NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

There was little that residents of Chouteau and Gabaret islands could do but pack up all their valuables and leave as they watched the Mississippi River rise during the weekend and heard predictions from the U.S. Corps of Engineers that the crest, now expected Tuesday, will be well above the levees which protect the large island.

Memories of 1973 descended upon those who had been there that year—the last time the island flooded. Memories of the hasty evacuation when the main levee broke and of the dirty, smelly and hard cleanup job which followed that flood.

This weekend, first the river was expected to top the levees sometime Saturday evening. Frantic activities to move mobile homes, furniture, farm tractors and other items began.

Then, a slight drop in the river level postponed the predicted flood until 11 p.m. Saturday. Residents of the island were told that they would probably not be allowed back onto the island Sunday.

When Sunday dawned, however, the river was at 34.6 feet and the levees were holding. Madison County sheriff's deputies began warning residents back onto the island to claim more of their belongings.

Tight security reigned at the eastern foot of the Chain of Rocks Canal Bridge, the only route vehicles can use to get on or off the island. "We want to keep looters out," explained Major Fred Bright of the sheriff's department. "No one is allowed on the island but the residents," he added.

Representatives of the news media were allowed on the island Saturday and for brief periods Sunday. There was plenty of activity to see. Large tractor-trailers sped along the levees and island roads, trying to get 35,000 bushels of beans out of a farmer's elevators before the water came.

All of the relatives of one woman living in a mobile home near low water dam helped her free her mobile home from porches, awnings, sewer lines and electrical lines so it could be moved out before the water came.

For those with houses on the island, there was nothing that could be done but get all valuable belongings out. (Continued on Page 20)

Deadline for free job ads

"We are very pleased with the response to the free classified advertisements we are offering for the unemployed in the community and certainly hope that many of those taking advantage of this offer will find jobs," Paul Halbert, general manager of the Press-Record commented this morning after reviewing more than 100 applications received for the free job-seeking ads.

In an effort to make the holiday season brighter for some of the approximately 20 percent of unemployed workers of the Quad-City area, the Press-Record will receive applications through 4:30 p.m. tomorrow, for free work wanted ads. Inside last week's Press-Record issues was a form which may be filled out by any unemployed person and returned to the Press-Record, either by mail or by dropping the completed form in a drop box in the newspaper's lobby at 1815 Delmar Ave.

The free "Employment Wanted Ads" will be printed in the Monday, Dec. 13, 20 and 27, editions of the Press-Record.

Persons utilizing this service must use the form from the Press-Record and will be required to abide by the limitations accompanying the form. Copies of last week's newspapers are available at the Press-Record office.

"We expected a big response to this offer and have not been disappointed. We only hope that employers in need of workers will watch the listings carefully and consider hiring those from the local area who want and need a job," Halbert concluded.

Rain? What if it were snow

So, you're tired of all this rainfall. Well, just be thankful that it is rain and not the white stuff we usually get this time of the year.

To date, since Friday, Nov. 19, when it started raining on a daily basis, authorities at Granite City Lock No. 27 have recorded 8.3 inches of rainfall.

Take heart Quad-Cityans. If that precipitation came as snow, there would be as much as 25 to 83 inches of the white stuff amidst us.

The difference depends on whether the snow comes as wet packing snow or the drier variety. According to meteorologist's equivalents for snow and rainfall, an inch of rain consists of three inches of wet, heavy snow and 10 inches of dry snow.

The 8.3 inches of rainfall this area has received in the last 17 days, needless to say, is staggering.

The average rainfall for this area of the Midwest is 34.21 inches annually. Using that figure, this area has received more than 23 percent of its annual amount of rainfall in the last 17 days.

To date, the National Weather Service in St. Louis has recorded 32.21 inches of rainfall, or 18 inches above normal for the year.

In comparison to the 1973 figures, the last time, the Mississippi River broke its levees, this area has received 10.49 more inches of rainfall than in 1973.

There is a happy note to this otherwise cloudy story. The National Weather Service does not predict any more rain until Friday.

Home decorations to be judged here

The Press-Record is announcing its "Decorate Your Home for Christmas Contest" today. All residents in Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach and Mitchell are eligible to win one of three prizes to be awarded for the best decorated homes in the Quad-City area this holiday season.

First prize will be a $100 savings bond, second prize is a $50 savings bond and third prize will be a Christmas ham.

To enter the contest, homeowners need only fill out the entry form in today's issue, or from subsequent issues of the Press-Record, and mail or bring forms by the office, 1815 Delmar Ave. There is a mail slot near the front door for after-hours dropoffs. Judging of the displays will be by a three-member panel on Sunday night, Dec. 19, after 6 p.m.

Entry forms must be received at the Press-Record office by 4:30 on Wednesday, Dec. 15. Press-Record employees and their families are not eligible to win. Only residences will be considered for judging.

Winners will be announced in the Monday, Dec. 20, issue. Prizes will be awarded on Tuesday, Dec. 21.

ISLAND FLOODING in portions of Gabaret Island is seen in this aerial photo of the eastern side of the island, near the Chain of Rocks Locks and Dam, yesterday. Tugboats in the Chain of Rocks Canal can be seen at the top and a group of duck hunters can be seen at the bottom. While the inhabited portions of Chouteau and Gabaret Island are expected to be dry until possibly tomorrow, small farm levees, such as the one above the boat, have been topped by the water. Flooding hundreds of acres of the islands.

Aging buildings, reduced funds hamper schools

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Fund cutbacks are continuing to plague Granite City schools as the district prepares to reduce its staff and possibly close some of its buildings.

Illinois legislators on Thursday defeated a proposal to neutralize tax base multipliers, winning applause from school administrators. But on Friday night the legislators authorized the governor to reduce already limited education allocations by $62 million—taking $42 million from elementary and secondary schools and $20 million from colleges and universities.

Many of the Granite City educational buildings are deteriorating from advanced age, but voters have declined to authorize higher tax rate ceilings to help repair them.

Officials say funds are inadequate to maintain the structures properly—and non-existent to replace any of the older schools. However, declining enrollment has eased any pressure to replace buildings, in contrast to the almost continuous school construction of past decades.

When it became apparent this fall that Community Unit School District

Nine's operating debt was escalating rapidly, board members said they would consider closing additional schools, as an economy measure. Within the next few weeks, potentially sweeping decisions will be made affecting the 1983-84 year's buildings, staff and costs.

Residents and other taxpayers are watching with interest because students, families and whole neighborhoods tend to become attached to "their" schools. The 18 buildings currently being operated range in age from 85 to 10 years.

The Board of Education conducted its second lengthy executive session on next fall's personnel needs Thursday night, the first having been held Nov. 23.

The board also conferred during part of Thursday evening with representatives of Granite City Local 743, American Federation of Teachers.

Shaping up are:

—Final 1982 real estate tax decisions, for 1983 collection. The tax decisions are to be made during tomorrow's regular board session, for implementation after a public hearing Dec. 21.

—Committee deliberations this week to explore ideas that could affect the district's financial and manpower planning.

—A special board meeting, perhaps in mid-December, at which possible cost-cutting actions will be disclosed to the public.

—Steps to obtain citizens' "in-out" this month or early next month on the 1983-84 school year's budget and hiring outlook.

And a board vote in January, locking the district into whatever cost control programs are decided upon.

At 11 p.m. Thursday, after the board had concluded a meeting (Continued on Page 3)

Arrest 2 seen at concrete firm

Donald L. Dermott, 18, of 1828 Delmar Ave. and Norman R. Lucas, 18, of 1718 Delmar were seen by police at 8:20 p.m. Thursday at the Paul Seebold Concrete Co. site at 1106 Twenty-second St., Lucas being arrested when he allegedly walked between an office and garage toward a concrete truck.

A flat tire on their auto had been replaced by them, they related. When Dermott sought to post bond for Lucas at 8:35 p.m., the former was warned to stay away from the concrete firm and was told that he had been seen there before.

A dispute ensued at the police building, and Dermott was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, having allegedly struck an officer about the arms and face. Police freed Dermott on $202 cash bail at 9:30 p.m. Thursday, and Lucas was held overnight. Seebold earlier had asked authorities to patrol often near the concrete plant due to a long series of nighttime thefts and acts of vandalism there.

Evening with Santa Friday in Madison

The traditional "Evening With Santa" program, sponsored by the Madison Junior Service Club, will take place at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 10, at the Croatian Home, 1000 Madison Ave., Madison. Plans for the event were finalized at last week's club meeting. Jackie Snell and Georgia Stawar, Santa project chairmen, reported

"Thru the Year With Big Bird" will be the title of the Christmas play to be presented Friday night.

The skit will feature Junior Service members in hand-made Muppet costumes, counting down the months of the year to Santa's arrival.

Tickets for the event, costing $1.50 each, now are available from any club member. The admission fee includes a hot dog, drink, chips and cookies. Santa also will distribute treats to the youngsters.

In other business last week, a report was made concerning a successful pancake and sausage breakfast given by the club to benefit Hospice of Madison County.

A letter of thanks was read from Judy Davenport, a local student, who was sponsored by the Madison group in "Operation Snowball," and it was announced a Christmas party will replace the December meeting. The annual "Hobby Auction" provided the evening's entertainment.

Venice buys truck for McKinley Bridge work

The Venice City Council has agreed to purchase a 1983 truck from Big 4 Chevrolet for use on the McKinley Bridge on a low bid of $13,078, submitted by the Collinsville firm.

Additionally, the aldermen authorized the purchase of amber lights for installation on the truck roof, costing $104, and an eight-foot snow plow attachment for $1,600.

Bridge Manager Tom Fields said 15 businesses had been asked to submit bids for the vehicle, but only one other bid was received, that being from Dave Croft Chrysler-Dodge.

Council members also authorized publication of an invitation for bids from those willing to buy the city-owned 1986 Chevrolet, 17-yard packer, refuse truck and a four-foot brush hog. Sealed bids will be received at the office of Venice City Clerk Ralph Brawley until 8 p.m. Dec. 14. The bids will be opened at the council meeting that night.

Venice Superintendent of Streets Tom Scaturro said the equipment is available for inspection by prospective bidders at the city garage, 1300 Klein St., Venice.

To help unemployed Venice workers who lack a specific number of hours to qualify for unemployment benefits, Mayor Tyrone Echols said several individuals falling into this category will be hired for varying lengths of time as replacements for Dale Mongiarracino, a Venice Street Department employee, who has resigned to accept another job.

Some of those to be hired by the city lack only one week or two weeks to qualify for unemployment benefits, the mayor said.

After explaining the reason for not hiring a permanent employee for the operating department, he pointed, "We have so many people in need of work, it seems better to do it this way."

Mrs. Gertrude Young, whose efforts have resulted in Venice streets being illuminated and decorated for the coming holiday season, expressed appreciation to the aldermen for their assistance in promoting the Christmas Decorating Fund and for furnishing an illuminated plaque, listing the names of donors of $100 or more.

She praised Venice Comptroller Roseann Koelker, noting that "she did all the paperwork for us and kept up with all the money that came in," and commended the efforts of Street Superintendent Scaturro and his helpers for accomplishing the electrical work needed on the Christmas project.

"By cooperating and working together we got it done," Mrs. Young said, adding, "I am proud of our mayor and all of you who had a part in it."

National Steel acquiring Vulcan Tube and Metals Co.

Bull Moose Tube Co., a subsidiary of National Steel Corp., Thursday, signed a letter of intent for the purchase of all the outstanding stock of Vulcan Tube and Metals Co., Chicago, for an undisclosed amount of cash.

The acquisition is expected to be completed prior to Dec. 31, 1982.

Bull Moose Tube (BMT), headquartered in St. Louis, operates seven electric resistance welding (ERW) mills in a 176,000-square-foot plant at Gerald, Mo. The plant produces tubing under three-inch OD for the mechanical, structural, sprinkler and pressure tubing markets. It is a unit of National Steel's Fabrication Group.

Vulcan Tube and Metals Co. operates three ERW mills in a 90,000-square-foot plant in Chicago for the production of mechanical and structural tubing. Vulcan had sales of $18 million in 1981.

"The acquisition of Vulcan Tube and Metals is consistent with National Steel's objective to expand those operations which have the potential for providing National's stockholders with a consistent and superior return on investment," said George Pulianis, president of the Fabricating Group. "Bull Moose Tube has an outstanding record of performance during the past eight years and an excellent outlook for the years ahead."

Chuck Emmenegger, vice president and general manager of BMT said, "The acquisition of Vulcan Tube and Metals will be a fine complement to our current operations. It will enable us to expand the products and services we offer to Vulcan's customers and to compete in new markets and regions that previously were difficult for either firm to service alone. At this time, we do not expect any major changes at Vulcan, except to install the same operating and sales philosophies that have made BMT successful."

Give-A-Can drive is in Pontoon Saturday

The Lions Club of Pontoon Beach has announced that it will conduct its seventh annual "Give-A-Can" drive on Saturday, Dec. 11, beginning at 11 a.m.

The Lions, assisted by the Lionsess Club, will go door to door throughout the village collecting canned goods, which will be distributed to needy families at Christmas. All the canned goods are collected by the Lions and the Lionsesses, they will be turned over to the United Way Community Service Center (Coordinated Youth Services) office in Pontoon Beach. In previous years, the Pontoon Beach organizations have collected more than 1,000 cans of food. They will coordinate their drive Saturday in Lakeview Estates, Quiet Valley, John Glenn Meadows, Village Green Mobile Home Park and Gaslight Walk Apartments.

Lion Mike Starko, the 1982 Give-A-Can chairman, noted, "Assistance begins at home, and the goal of this service project is to help those in the Pontoon Beach and surrounding Nameoki Township have a brighter and happier Christmas holiday."

Lion President Frank Cramer, added that he hopes this is the best Give-A-Can day the club has ever had because of the large number of people who are out of work this year.

"Persons interested in obtaining information on Christmas baskets for themselves or would like to recommend a family in need may call the United Way CVSS office in Pontoon Beach at 931-2700," said Starko.

All information received is kept confidential and applications are limited to Pontoon Beach and Nameoki Township residents, he pledged.

School funds

lasting more than three hours. Supt. B. J. Davis told the Press-Record further progress had been made.

Meeting with six of the seven board members were Davis, Assistant Supt. Frank Kraus, Finance Director Norman Owca, Personnel Administrator Terry Salem and Employee Relations Administrator Harold Hillmer. Board Member David Partney was out-of-town.

The superintendent voiced relief that Illinois state senators earlier Thursday voted to retain use of multipliers in determining the assessment base of Illinois school districts and other taxing bodies.

Despite this news, school leaders say they face first-year tax borrowing of $6 million for education and $700,000 for buildings, plus second-year tax warrants of $1,700,000 for education, as of July or August 1983.

Because the revenue and spending imbalance and the accumulated debt have been growing, the district apparently would have to order major economies to achieve even a break-even year. To get out of debt or even reduce the debt a little would require cutbacks in addition to the reductions necessary to balance the annual budget.

The board has expressed the hope of taking steps this winter to eliminate the need for second-year tax borrowing, which is a procedure for anticipating real estate taxes that will be paid between one and two years in the future.

The school district owes no construction bonds, but has been borrowing heavily to meet its current operating costs, especially during times when the arrival of tax receipts is delayed.

Factors in this financial squeeze have included inflation, the recession, unemployment and alterations in state and federal funding.

Supt. Davis has encouraged preservation of the instructional program at its present quality and diversity. He has said that, within that framework, radical cuts may be needed in personnel and building expenditures.

As noted, the schools now in use date back as far as 1897, when Emerson School opened its doors.

If elementary schools are to be closed, the district would have to choose between Emerson (1971), Webster (1907), Nameoki (1925), Marshall (1929), Niedringhaus (1929), Mitchell (1937), Frohardt and new Logan (both 1955), Maryville and Wilson (both 1969), Lake (1960), Parkway (1960) and Johnson (1972).

If junior high schools are to be closed, school officials would look at Coolidge (1956 opening date), Prather (1960) or Grigsby (1969). If a high school is to be closed, they would have to choose between South (opened as Granite City High School in 1924) and North (1973).

Central Junior High School and Liberty Elementary School have been dismantled and the Washington, McKinley and Stallings buildings have been closed as grade schools and converted to other uses.

The original Logan School, constructed in 1913, was converted in recent years from an elementary school to a pre-school center. It currently is leased to the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, which operates a Head Start pre-school program.

The Central Junior High site is the location of the present Granite City Township Building, which includes Quad-City special education headquarters.

Although age is one of the aspects of a school considered when a closing decision is pending, other factors include the size, location, operating costs, proximity to students, and types of facilities within the building.

As is apparent from the opening dates of the various buildings, District Nine once was adding a grade school a year—and growing in enrollment by about the capacity of a large grade school annually. Now, the enrollment is shrinking by nearly the same number of students (several hundred) per year.

Although the financial problem is local and its solution must be found here, the General Assembly's veto session ending during the weekend at Springfield was on the minds of many officials, employees and taxpayers. The state provides about 40 percent of each year's Granite City school income.

Gov. James R. Thompson said granted extraordinary power to trim $164 million from the state's $8.2 billion general funds budget, mostly from education and welfare ($54 million from the latter).

Legislators authorized a speed-up in state utility tax collections but rejected Thompson's plan to increase liquor taxes 66 percent.

Ordinarily, a governor could not reduce a budget this late in the July-June fiscal year, but the December reduction authorization was seen as "painful but necessary," in the words of Sen. Prescott Bloom, Peoria Republican.

Senate President Philip Rock, Chicago Democrat, speculated that even deeper cuts may be required by April 1.

A critic of the proposal, Rep. Aaron Jaffe, Skokie Democrat, asked during the debate, "Why give a governor who has consistently misled the public about the financial condition of this state carte blanche powers over programs over which he has shown no concern?"

The two houses of the legislature voted affirmatively, 117-38 and 37-11.

The revenue and budget decisions completed legislative deliberations until Jan. 10. The next session, with a much smaller House of Representatives taking office, will begin Jan. 12.

Illinois Education Supt. Donald Gill said it has not been decided how the funding cuts will be made—affecting general aid to schools, specific educational programs, or possibly the pension fund for teachers.

Dr. Gill commented, "Schools are willing to do their part to keep the state from going broke. If we have to bear our proportional share, we shouldn't complain. What I complain about is when education bears more than its share of the burden."

School leaders testified last week that "chaos" would result from the multiplier neutralization—written by the governor as an amendatory veto and unexpectedly accepted by the Illinois House prior to being blocked 29-25 in the Senate.

Among the 29 voting against Thompson's multiplier proposal was Sen. Sam Vadalabene of this district. The governor said afterward that he will resubmit the plan next year.

VFW sends yule cards to POWs, MIAs

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300 and auxiliary have joined a united effort by all VFW organizations in the state to help the National League of Families obtain information and accounting for approximately 2,500 POWs and MIAs still believed to be in Southeast Asia.

Among those still unaccounted for are 106 military from Illinois, including two from Granite City, Capt. John B. Causey and Warrant Officer James L. Dayton.

The members of posts and auxiliaries throughout the state are hoping to resolve the issue of unaccounted for soldiers through public awareness programs.

These include letter-writing and petition campaigns and the sending of Christmas cards to these POWs and MIAs, in care of the representative of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to the United Nations in New York City.

Last week, 212 Christmas cards were mailed at the Granite City Post Office. These were given the special attention of Granite City Postmaster Jack Wilkins.

Each member of the local post and auxiliary sent a card to those still unaccounted for. It is estimated that if all state posts and auxiliaries participate in the yuletide project, more than 77,000 pieces of mail should be received by the Vietnamese representatives by Christmas.

The cards and postage were donated by auxiliary members, including President Ollie Conaway, Cheryl Conaway, Freida Blattner, Loretta Rose, Lavern Mull, Eleanor Meyers and Betty Daugherty.

Help in addressing the cards was given by Nancy and Debbie Schefke and Cheryl and Angela Mangi. Cleo Schefke is chairman for the project and also is POW-MIA chairman for the auxiliary.

Grant for attendance program

The Granite City High School South Guidance Department, under the direction of Vasil Ettimoff, District Nine administrative assistant, has been awarded a vocational guidance improvement grant.

Written by Mrs. Sonya Adkerson, coordinator of pupil personnel services at South, the program is entitled "Attendance-Achieve."

Beginning spring semester, Mrs. Adkerson and Miss Peggy Ellis, secondary school social worker, will work with groups of students who are under the age of 16 and who have low or failing grades caused primarily by unexcused absences. Study

Aid to islands shows help is near

It takes a crisis, such as the impending flooding of Chouteau and Gabaret islands, to remind us how many good neighbors we have who are willing to give their time and money to help those in need.

Thousands of volunteers and professional aid and rescue personnel are at work in St. Louis and St. Louis County, which are experiencing more severe flooding than this area, but there still are dozens of men and women standing guard at the bridge to Chouteau Island to give aid, if the worst happens.

From our on-the-scene observations, we saw the Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps, the Wood River Volunteer Emergency Corps, the Madison County Sheriff's Department, the Granite City Auxiliary Police, the Red Cross and Salvation Army, Chouteau and Venice townships, the Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice Levee District and others at work. We may have overlooked others aiding on the islands this busy weekend. If we did, we are sorry.

Madison Diesel Service and G & G Car Wash donated their helicopter and pilot's time to aid both the sheriff's department and the Press-Record in seeing the islands from the air, searching for would-be looters and studying the condition of the levees protecting the island.

The Granite City Army Installation filled a need, providing storage buildings and housing for those evicted from the island.

Security was tight, thanks to the Madison County Sheriff's Department and Major Fred Bright, who is in charge of the checkpoint at the Chain of Rocks Canal Bridge. Sightseers and potential looters are barred from entering the islands by vehicle.

Only residents and vehicles authorized by the residents are being allowed on or off the island.

All in all, it is man helping man. Volunteers and professionals doing everything they can to aid and protect those whose homes may soon be flooded.

We are grateful we have such efficient emergency aid in this area and know the residents of Chouteau Island are doubly grateful.

Congressmen should take the heat

Falling Congress for voting to increase members' salaries has been a popular American pastime for as long as most of us can remember. The spectacle of politicians judging themselves worthy of greater remuneration presents a populist target few can resist.

Some years ago, Congress reacted to this periodic hail of brickbats by enacting automatic cost-of-living increases tied to the consumer price index. The public reaction west of the Potomac was, if anything, even worse than when members had simply voted themselves a raise.

Automatic, unvoted increases smacked of greed, compounded by political cowardice.

Accordingly, Congress has voted every year since 1977 to deny members their cost-of-living increases. And the current lame duck Congress in Washington is expected to follow suit.

If it doesn't, members could receive pay increases of either $2,426 per year or $16,648 per year, depending on whether they accept only the scheduled 1982 raise or collect the cumulative pay hikes deferred since 1977. Adding the latter amount to congressional salaries that already stand at $60,652 annually would seem particularly inappropriate at a time when so many Americans are enduring economic hardships.

But arguing over dollars obscures the larger political issue of whether Congress should scrap the automatic raises altogether. It has become a charade anyway because the cost-of-living increases haven't been automatic and public pressure has forced Congress to vote on the question each year.

Why not make it official by repealing the cost-of-living increases? If members of Congress think they deserve a raise, and sometimes they do, let them make their case to constituents and then risk the consequences, by voting on the record.

Straight talk about VA benefits

There are some things that people in government are free to say only when they are going out the door. So it was, no doubt, with Robert Nimmo, who made his exit as director of the Veterans Administration with some uncommonly frank words about the VA disability program.

Many of the nation's 30 million veterans, says Nimmo, are taking the government for a ride by collecting disability benefits they do not need or deserve. He is worried that if this abuse is not checked, veterans benefits will generate the same kind of financial crisis and call for cutbacks that has overtaken the Social Security program.

The nation owes a debt to all those who have served their country in uniform, but it has no obligation to pay "disability" benefits to people who are not disabled. Nimmo says the VA is paying benefits on the basis of hemorrhoids, sinus trouble, and other conditions which have nothing to do with exposure to combat, nothing to do with service in the armed forces, and nothing to do with a person's ability to hold a job.

Officials Nimmo is leaving behind in the VA bureaucracy deny that the disability program is open to the kind of abuse that he describes. The experience of other government programs suggests, however, that safeguards against payment of benefits to the undeserving are not as effective in practice as they appear to be on paper.

Having spoken his piece, the controversial Nimmo makes way for a successor, Harry N. Walters, who must now begin patching up relations with the veterans organizations. Nimmo offended with his remarks. We wish him well, but when he leaves office, we hope he can be more reassuring about the ability of the VA to target all of its $25 billion budget toward veterans who really need the government's help.

Special protection unnecessary

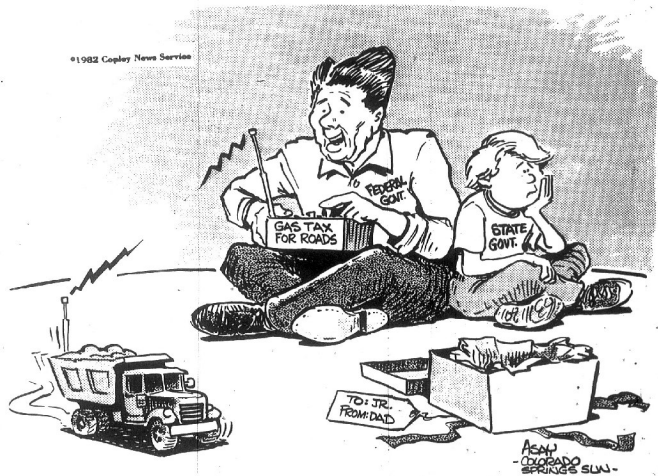

Union leaders are concerned that certain labor protective provisions for airline employees will be phased out, too, when the Civil Aviation Board, which regulates the industry, goes out of existence on Jan. 1, 1985.

In the past, the CAB has had the discretionary authority to require that, when airlines merged or sold out to another airline, the pilots and stewards, mechanics and other union members would have to go along with the airlines to work for the new airline. Or the new airline would have to pay heavy severance charges to the former employees. This would be an economic burden on the new firm that could prevent such mergers.

Debt or no debt, the continuation of these labor protective provisions would be bad for the airline industry and bad for the country. They would discourage such mergers as the present attempt by Pacific Southwest Airlines and Braniff International to get a portion of the bankrupt Braniff air fleet back into operation and put 1,500 of Braniff's 8,500 unemployed workers back on the job.

Congress should watch the PSA-Braniff situation and learn from it. Special protections for airline workers are uncalled for.

Last week the U.S. House of Representatives' Ways and Means Committee passed a Reagan Administration plan that would boost the tax on gasoline and diesel fuel by five cents per gallon. The $5.5 billion in revenue generated by the tax, which begins April 1, 1983, will be used to finance an expansion and rebuilding of roads. The combination job-works proposal is expected to employ 320,000 persons. A member of the Press-Record editorial interviewed persons at First Granite City Savings about the tax. Their reactions follow:

Dave Knollman, vice president

"If it will do what they say it will, I'm all for it. I won't mind spending a couple more dollars a week to put that many people back to work. Besides that, the roads are always in need of repair."

Paula Fuller, teller

"I know it's to help put people back to work and to help our roads... I've got mixed feelings about it. Although, I guess it's the best way of getting people back to work. We've got to do something for the unemployed."

Cheryl Vaughn, teller

"If it will put people back to work like they say it will, I'm all for it. I'm not so sure about the five cent tax part, but then again, I'm not one of the people out of work."

Linda Bell, teller

"It won't bother me to pay it (the tax). If it's going to help put people back to work, I think it's money put to good use."

Take-aways jeopardize '83 steel bargaining

To the Editor:

Steelworkers aren't looking for a strike. If we strike, it will be because of the steel companies' posture in their demands to take away, instead of bargaining what has been agreed upon in the past.

Most newspapers are reporting that the companies wanted only a 10 percent wage reduction. In the concessionary contract that was offered to us on Nov. 19 in Pittsburgh, the total amount that we would give back was closer to a 22-28 percent cut in wages.

The hourly wage cut would add up to over $2.45 with $1.50 paid in 45 months, 50 cents an hour in the months of August 1983, 1984 and 1985.

That means in 1985 we would be where we are now. The companies also wanted to eliminate our extended vacation. This would cost us about 100 jobs at Granite City Steel and over 15,000 in basic steel.

Our COLA (cost of living) that is due in February and May of next year would have been eliminated. There would be no COLA during the life of the proposed contract (45 months) unless the company reached certain profit levels.

We would also have given back one holiday, and our Sunday premium would have been reduced from time and one-half to time and one-quarter.

In return for these give-backs we would have received no guarantee that the money that the companies saved would be put back into steel and not used to buy savings and loans and oil companies as National Steel and United States Steel purchased.

There was no guarantee of protecting any of the jobs we have left, let alone bringing back some of the laid-off workers.

Some of the jobs we have lost have not been to the Japanese but to technology, company personnel and attrition.

Steelworkers have settled for fair pay raises because money has been the easiest thing to get. However, our biggest raises were tied into the cost of living index which we have no control of.

This was the second time in six months that a concessionary contract was brought forward.

We have talked in the hope of helping the unemployed members of our union.

However, the companies are wanting too much.

In a recent study done by the Organization for Economic Cooperation it was noted that in yearly gross earnings (average) Japan ranked fourth in the world with $16,960.

The United States average ranked eighth with $14,949. In Fortune magazine, it was reported that top executives in Japan earn an average of $80,000 yearly.

In the U.S., the top executives earned the following in 1981: G.M., $489,000; Time Inc., $83,367; G.E., $853,000 and Sears and Roebuck, $1,010,000.

Given the true information, I would say that anyone outside of the situation should take a good hard look before they point their fingers. If they want to criticize someone, they can start at the top.

People have suffered greatly in the past for the right to picket and strike.

How many people know about the Memorial Day massacre many years ago when police beat, maimed and even killed workers for picketing in front of their work place?

Probably not many, since it's not one of the most publicized events in American history even though it was captured on film.

Fortunately, we have come a long way between then and now.

It has been largely because of the respect that union members have demanded and earned — as the backbone of every corporation and of this country — that has helped create a more peaceful attitude.

We will only continue if we keep moving forward, not backward in contract negotiations.

There are a lot of items that we need in our contract that aren't monetary, but it seems the companies aren't willing to trade for them.

That is not a healthy attitude to have when entering negotiations, especially when the situation is supposedly so dire.

That is the realization that must be faced, analyzed and dealt with in the coming months.

Suggests considering volunteer work for AID

To the Editor:

We would like to suggest the following to your readers.

Fund fulfillment by helping others. AID Inc. of Collinsville, a non-profit drug abuse prevention agency, is seeking volunteers to help youth who are caught in the trap of drug and alcohol abuse. AID continues to exist through adding new members to its family.

If you would like to help someone in need, and be a part of AID's family, we invite you to participate in the next Volunteer Training program, which begins Jan. 4, 1983.

As a volunteer at AID, you will learn to counsel with people who call AID's hotline or come into the Drop In Center. You would also help with planning activities and programs for young people, such as Operation Snowball, Peer Leadership training, Peer Rap Group and the Parents Support Group.

We need your time and energy to help young people and their families. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer, call Ruth and Debbie at 345-5200, or drop by the AID office at 413 Vandana in Collinsville.

Slow start as filing opens today

The filing period for Granite City and Madison independent candidates opened this morning, but no long lines of office hopefuls waited at the city halls.

Former Fifth Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey, 2807 Roosevelt Ave., was the first to file a petition in Granite City, placing him first on the April 12 ballot for the Fifth Ward office. Since incumbent Alderman Margaret Nonn announced her retirement, candidates have picked up petitions for that ward.

The only other candidate in line at the 8 a.m. opening was First Ward Alderman Everett Morlen, 2666 E. 24th St. By 9 a.m., Sixth Ward Alderman Walter Milton, 3214 Wabash Ave., and Superintendent of Streets Mac Warfield, 22 Devon Hill Lane, had both filed with City Clerk Robert Stevens for re-election.

No independent candidates filed early Monday in Madison. However, an early filing there would not have assured petitioners a top position on the ballot. According to the election rules, candidates running with a slate are the first to appear on the ballot and candidates backed by the Madison City Organization have traditionally run on a slate. Filing period for slate candidates opens Jan. 24.

Those in Granite City who have picked up petitions but not yet filed are Alderman Sam Whitner, 2321 State St. and Joseph McGinness, 2605 Washington Ave., both for Second Ward; Alderman Paul Fisk, 2525 E. 25th St., and Charles Wasylak, 2328 E. 25th St., both for Third Ward.

Alderman Warren Decatur, 3229 Colgate Place, Fourth Ward; Gary Barnstable, 2835 West 22nd St., and La Verna Corbitt, 2701 Denver Ave., both for Fifth Ward; Ross Halbrook, 3272 Edgewood Ave., Sixth Ward; Alderman Michael Modrusic, 2036 Pontoon Road, Seventh Ward.

Those who have picked up petitions in Madison are Alfred Endicott, 1419 Third St. for First Ward; James Riskovsky, 714 Iowa St., and Thomas George, 1703 Elizabeth St., both for the Second Ward; Walter F. "Mick" Strange, 1736 Fifth St., Third Ward, and James Newsome, 1629 Market St., for Fourth Ward.

Candidates have until next Monday to file for city offices.

Todd Zessinger

Todd M. Zessinger, 2-month old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry (Debra Lee Barnhart) Zessinger, 2800 Gaslight Walk, was pronounced dead at 5:42 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, 1982, at Belleville Memorial Hospital of injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Both his parents were hospitalized after a head-on collision in which the other motorist was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, authorities said.

The father, who was in satisfactory condition Sunday and his wife was in serious condition in the intensive care unit, hospital officials reported.

According to St. Clair County sheriff's deputies, Zeffinger, 24, was driving east on Illinois Route 15, a half mile east of Route 157, when a westbound car crossed the median and collided with his car head-on.

Louis Britton, 36, of East St. Louis, driver of the westbound car, was charged with improper lane usage, driving under the influence and driving too fast for conditions.

Britton was treated for minor injuries at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Belleville, taken to the St. Clair County Jail for processing and later freed to stand trial later.

St. Clair County Coroner James Radden said the infant died of head injuries. He had been seated between his parents, strapped in a baby's car seat, but the impact pushed the dashboard of the car into him, Radden said.

Other survivors include grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Grace) Barnhart, Granite City, orville Zessinger, Hermann, Mo., and Ralph Hoch and Mrs. JoAnn Hoch, both of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, telephone 931-2121.

Changes may be in store for GC alcohol ordinance

By GEORGE ANN MCCREE of the Press-Record

An updated ordinance should finally clarify what groups are restricted under the city's quota system for retailers of alcoholic beverages, according to Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, liquor commissioner.

No such ordinance, however, is expected for presentation at tomorrow's 8 p.m. council meeting.

At that time, the city's ordinance would have to be amended first, since the city had already issued the maximum number of licenses for businesses selling alcohol per drink. Alderman Varadian later discarded such an amendment when the mayor claimed there was a surplus of licenses available.

His opinion that the city had reached its license limit had been inaccurately based on a list including clubs and certain other limited-entertainment businesses, according to the mayor. By same standards, he stated, the city would have been exceeding its own ordinance, since last amended in 1978.

Alderman Whitmer has challenged the exclusion of these clubs and organizations from the license quota, since no provision for special categories is contained in the current ordinance. In 1978, the council did not act on a proposed law that would have created seven license classifications, including separate club, restaurant, bowling alley, motel and combination tavern and packaged liquor licenses.

Whitmer contended at the Nov. 30 council meeting that the city was issuing such combination licenses, although he said such a category does not exist.

Whitmer asked the council to square away any inconsistencies among the number and types of licenses being distributed with the law. The suggestion got an "OK" from the council. Later, Schuler said a new ordinance will be brought in to clarify the situation.

The city ordinance now allows 39 Class "A" liquor licenses for the retail sale of alcoholic beverages per drink, and no more than eight Class "B" licenses for sale of alcohol in sealed containers. According to Alderman Whitmer's count, the city has issued 36 Class "A" licenses to taverns and eight to fraternal and other special businesses.

According to Whitmer, several of those 36 tavern Class "A" licenses holders also sell packaged liquor, although the city has already separately issued seven Class "B" licenses to package liquor stores.

At a meeting Thursday, the city board of supervisors said it would support the mayor's proposal to amend the ordinance. The board also agreed to support the mayor's proposal to amend the ordinance to allow for special categories of businesses.

The mayor and council have, in the past several years, alternately decided the city was exceeding its license limit, then was under that same limit. A review of the city's municipal code by Alderman Sam Whitmer, Second Ward, has apparently convinced the mayor to review application of the ordinance once again.

Last month, when Alderman Jake Varadian, First Ward, requested a license for a downtown restaurant, he was informed the city's ordinance would have to be amended first, since the city had already issued the maximum number of licenses for businesses selling alcohol per drink. Alderman Varadian later discarded such an amendment when the mayor claimed there was a surplus of licenses available.

One Madison County employee who lost his job because of the county's budget problems may be looking for a new job. The county board of supervisors has agreed to pay a guard for juveniles transported from the county's detention home to the courthouse.

At a meeting Thursday, the county board of supervisors said it would support the mayor's proposal to amend the ordinance to allow for special categories of businesses.

department can no longer afford to guard the juveniles while they are at the courthouse. Mrs. Kane blamed the problem on budget cuts in fiscal year 1983, which began Wednesday.

Chief Judge Joseph Barr sent a letter to the committee saying that the courts already are short two bailiffs and cannot afford using one to guard the juveniles.

After meeting with Barr and Sheriff Emil Toftant, Mrs. Kane said the best alternative is to contract a recently laid-off county worker to watch the juveniles while they are at the courthouse — for $1,000 in 1983. She said the money could come from the $251,503 contingency fund.

Mrs. Kane said that by hiring a laid-off employee the county would save $7,500 in employment compensation costs. And by hiring the former employee on a contract basis, Mrs. Kane said the county would not have to pay fringe benefits, and the worker would be non-union.

"It's about as bare-boned as we could make it," Mrs. Kane said.

Under the new arrangement, she said, the sheriff's department would transport the juveniles from the detention home to the courthouse, where the new employee would guard them. Maj. Fred Bright, sheriff's director of field operations, has recommended that the sheriff's employees who would be willing to take the job.

The nearly $2 million of general fund cuts in 1983 has caused the problem, according to Mrs. Kane, and she said that the county would be willing to provide this service. "The sheriff does not have the personnel or the law behind him, and he doesn't have to do it," Mrs. Kane said. "But the sheriff will step in for dangerous criminals."

County chairman William Little, Alton, said the county should be careful in using contingency fund money, which he thinks should be saved for emergencies.

"We have a problem. When you take anything from contingency, where is it going to stop?" Little said. "Sure, it's an emergency, but we don't want to make a procedure out of this type of thing."

The committee voted to send a resolution to the county board recommending transfer of $11,000 from the contingency fund to the courts.

The resolution also says the employee will be under the adult and juvenile probation departments.

The resolution will come before the full county board at its Dec. 15 meeting.

Illinois unemployment climbed 0.9 to 13.2 percent in November. Former outside auditors of the defunct Stix & Co. stock firm, Sidney S. Cohen & Co., asked Friday for $100 million in damages from the Chicago firm for the scheme to loot the brokerage. Court Trustee Harry O. Moline had filed a $14 million suit against the auditors in October, saying their negligence was partly to blame for the loss, and the Cohen firm counter-sued Friday. Defendants are Thomas R. Brimberry, Leonard Bednar, James Massa, Arthur Miller Jr., Duane Skinner and Jerry S. Maerz. The auditors assert that conspirators gave Cohen false information and that the true records were concealed in a "sophisticated, devious manner."

West hands Warriors fifth loss of season 82-59

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — This last weekend was not a good one for Granite City South's basketball team, but it was for two Belleville cage squads.

Friday, the Warriors dropped their first Gateway East Conference game of the season and their home opener to Belleville Althoff 86-67. The following night, the Warriors came up short again, losing to Belleville West 82-59. The losses drop South's record to 0-5 on the season. West is now 3-0.

After the latter game, Warrior coach Don Deterding sat speechless in his office reflecting on the game. Finally, he spoke.

"We're going to have to get our act together," Deterding said. "We played an excellent ball club tonight, but we can't give up 80 points to any team and expect to win.

"We played with a lot of poise last night, but there wasn't much tonight," Deterding said.

Deterding said he was pleased with South's offense, but his Warrior defense still needs work.

"I'm satisfied with our offense;

Anytime we can get (nearly) 70 points we should win," he said. "We're going to have to re-evaluate our defense though."

Deterding could not have been more right.

The Warrior defense enabled the Maroons to shoot a staggering 71 percent from the floor. The Warriors shot a respectable 60 percent from the floor.

One reason for West's success Saturday night was senior guard Ken Coplen. Coplen racked up a total of 35 points, 22 of those points were from the field. The 6-foot-7 guard was deadly at the free throw line also, sinking 13 of 17 from the stripe. At one point, Coplen was six for six from the charity line. South made 45 percent of its free throws. The Warriors' Brian Pithers was South's leading scorer with 17 points.

To put the game in perspective, the smaller Warriors were out shot, out rebounded, out everythinged. The Warriors managed to dominate West in one category: turnovers.

South led in turnovers 24 to West's 19.

Deterding also cited his team as having an attitude problem.

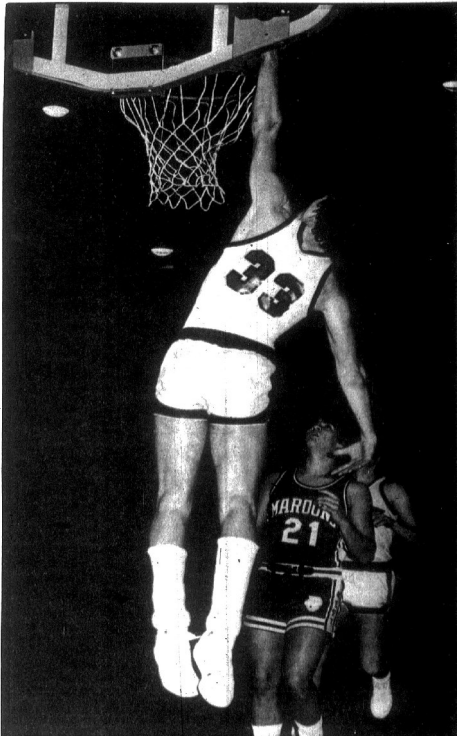

"Our guys have to learn not to lose their heads out there," Deterding said. "When they start thinking about things they have no control over, like officiating, they can't be concentrating 100 percent on the game," he said.

"I've got to convince these kids that when they play with their heads they'd be good. They have to learn they can not let their emotions enter into the game."

The Warriors have yet to win a game this season. Their five losses, however, have been to excellent basketball teams: Quincy, the 1980 AA state champions; Chicago Marley and Chicago Marist two powerhouses from Northern Illinois; Belleville Althoff and Belleville West, two of the best teams in Southern Illinois.

"That's true. We have lost to some good teams," Deterding said. But we could be doing a lot better than we are."

South will get a chance to pick up its first win this Saturday, Dec. 11, as the Warriors travel to Wood River to take on the Oilers.

IT'S A SLAMMER. Granite City South's Brian Pithers slam dunked this one in the waning minutes Saturday in the Warriors' basketball game against Belleville West. The dunker thrilled fans, but had little effect on the outcome of the game. South lost 82-59, its fifth loss of the season.

Steeler cage squad falls to Edwardsville 57-42

By STEVE ROTSCH
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North Steelers lost in their first Gateway East Conference boys' basketball game 57-42, Friday, to the Edwardsville Tigers.

It was another Steeler game that was decided by inexperience, and an Edwardsville Tiger named Mark Bradford also had a hand in the defeat.

Bradford, who was the game's leading scorer with 17 points, appeared to own the offensive backboard and was also responsible for several Steeler turnovers.

"He has to be kept off of the offensive boards," Steeler coach Bill Ohlendorf said, of Bradford who had six offensive rebounds and converted four of them for points.

The reason that the Tigers were able to outscore the Steelers at the beginning of the game and after the half is because their experience allowed them to adjust to new Steeler strategy quicker, according to Edwardsville coach Bud Vallino.

The Steelers tried several defenses and were most successful with the zone defense they used during the second quarter. Earlier in the game they were trying to run with the Tigers, which allowed Edwardsville to build a 19-8 first quarter lead.

The Steelers cut that lead to five points at the half, 25-20, by taking away the inside shots.

"We weren't stalling," Vallino said, explaining why his team started to pass the ball back and forth away from the basket. "We were trying to draw them out."

While they were trying to draw the Steelers out of their zones the Tigers committed two turnovers which allowed North to close the gap.

But the Tigers came out running in the second half and the Steelers started to throw the ball, as well as several fine scoring chances away from the basket.

"I thought we had a good shot selection but we just couldn't score," Ohlendorf said. "We knew we didn't have good shooters at the beginning of the year."

The Steelers are still mostly in need of experience and Ohlendorf admits they still need to be fitter. "We got a little tired again this week but next week we'll be plenty fit."

Another reason for the loss, according to Ohlendorf, is that the Tigers are in the contention for the conference crown.

Steve Trittschub and Daren DePew both had 10 points for the Steelers and Scott Cant and Ray Takmajian both scored nine. Jeff Gray and Art Williams both finished with two points.

The Steelers record fell to 0-3 for the season and 0-1 in the Gateway East Conference. The Tiger's evened their record at 2-2 and are 1-0 in conference play.

The Steeler's junior varsity squad beat the Tigers 61-53, after being behind most of the first half.

Next Friday the Steelers travel to Cahokia for another conference matchup. Game time is 6:15 p.m.

Red Devils edge Madison 50-49 on three pointer

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

VENICE — When the pressure is on the Venice Red Devils, there's one player coach Ken Perkins can count on to get the job done—junior point guard Eddie Salmond.

With seven seconds left, Salmond scored the Red Devils' final three points which gave Venice a 50-49 win over Madison Friday.

After Salmond sealed the fate of the game with the three point play and the clock ran out, Venice fans stormed the court to congratulate their heroes.

Venice fans waited long for the celebration. Seven years, to be exact. The last time Venice beat the Trojans was in 1975, the same year the Red Devils won the Class A basketball state championship.

Perkins knew Salmond would have to handle the ball in some way or another in the last two minutes of the game for Venice to win, so that is what he told the Red Devils in a timeout with 2:32 left in the game.

"I told them to pass around to look for the good shot and to give it to Eddie," Perkins said. "He's an intelligent player, and I knew he would either shoot if he had a clear shot or throw to someone else open."

With the score tied at 45-45 with 1:56 left, the Red Devils broke through Madison's full court pressure and they worked the ball around the perimeter until Salmond was open. With 1:10 left in the game, Salmond got the ball, but he didn't have a shot.

Instead, he found William Watts open for an easy shot to give Venice a brief lead.

Madison scored the ball down the court, and Robert Bishop tied the game at 47-47 with a lay-up.

"I told them to pass around—to look for the good shot—and to give it to Eddie. He's an intelligent player, and I knew he would either shoot... or throw to someone else."

Ken Perkins
Venice basketball coach

Again, Venice broke the pressure and worked the ball waiting for Salmond to get open again. With 15 seconds, Venice almost blew the game.

A pass intended for guard Micah Wiley was deflected by the Trojans and both teams scrambled for the ball. Wiley managed to win the battle for the ball, and the pass immediately went to an open Salmond.

Salmond put a high arch on the ball, and it easily went through the basket. Salmond was fouled on the shot, and the Trojans called time out before Salmond's free throw.

"We asked Eddie if he was going to make the free throw, and he said, 'I'm going to make the free throw.' We weren't asking if we were going to make the free throw, we were saying we will make the free throw and plan around that," Perkins said.

Salmond, who happens to be the valedictorian of the junior class at Venice, calmly made the free throw. The ball hit nothing but net.

Madison had one more chance to score to try to tie the game. Venice allowed the Trojans to set up guard Michael Young for the final shot and allowed him to make the shot with two seconds left. No Red Devil was near him as he shot to prevent a foul.

Since no Trojan was fouled during the play, Madison tried to call a timeout before Venice had control of the ball out-of-bounds. Madison lost the battle, and Venice kept the ball behind the line until the buzzer sounded.

"He's (Salmond) has more heart than three or four other players," Perkins said.

Madison coach Larry Graham had no excuses for the loss.

"They made the key shots that they had to make. We jumped out in front and they kept coming back at us. We kept pulling out a little, and they caught up with us and made the shots at the end when they had to," Graham said.

Madison pulled out to a 15-8 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Red Devils cut the margin to two points by halftime.

Although Madison missed six straight shots at early in the third quarter, Venice couldn't take advantage of the situation and Madison led 39-37 after three quarters.

The reason why the game was so close was because both teams played extremely tight defense.

"This was the kind of game you could put on ESPN instead of a college game and you wouldn't have disappointed anyone," Perkins said. "Both teams had their hands in each others faces."

"Most of the turnovers weren't the ones you could take a kid out and stop the turnovers. The kids made mistakes because everyone was playing such tight defense," Perkins said.

Venice controlled the much taller Trojans on the boards. The Red Devils didn't start a player over 5-9, but they had position inside and got their share of the rebounds.

"We were prepared. Not at any stretch of the imagination are we a good rebounding team, but if the kids see the value of blocking out, they'll do it. They were doing it tonight," Perkins said.

"We matched up well with them. When I told them about each player, I told them their strengths and weaknesses. They were all sold that they could control their men, and that they were really going to get them. Madison was exactly the same way," Perkins added.

Although the Trojans were down about the outcome of the game, Graham knew it wasn't the end of the season.

"We're going to get better as the season goes on. This isn't the same type of team we had last year, and it's going to take time for us to get there. We did give a good effort," Graham said.

Graham noted the Trojans needed improvement in all aspects of the game, but noted leadership as a definite weakness.

"Someone has to take charge out there. We had the kids last year who did take charge, but we lost them. The kids have the talent to do it, but they didn't do it tonight. If we had taken advantage of our opportunities, we would have won," Graham said.

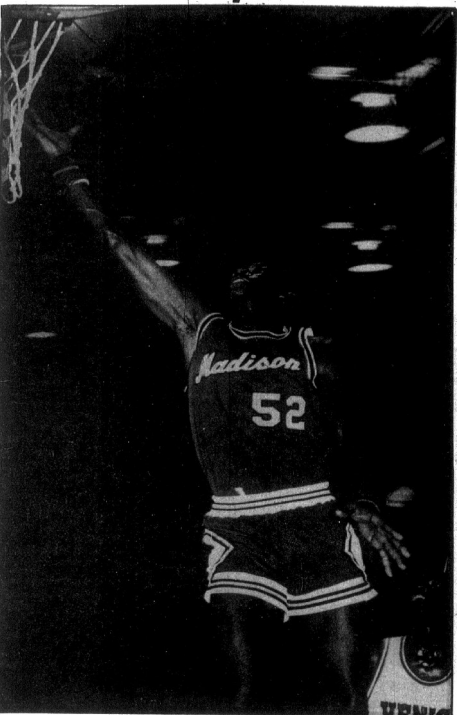

Salmond led Venice with 15 points, Phillip White scored 12 points and Wiley had 11 points. Leroy Pryor led the Trojans with 13 points and Young had 10 points.

The Red Devils, 2-0 for the season, are idle until Friday when they travel to Lebanon. Madison, 0-1, entertains Edwardsville Tuesday night at 8 p.m.

BELLEVILLE — Walt Whitaker, Granite City North's wrestling coach, said the Steelers' matches Friday and Saturday would be a real test of their abilities.

If the weekend's matches were indeed a test, North earned an "A." The Steelers swept all four matches and raised their record to 5-0 after just one week of the season.

North faced its toughest test in a triple-dual meet at Belleville West Saturday. The Steelers beat surprising Edwardsville 29-21, Belleville West 37-18, and Collinsville 56-6. On Friday, North defeated DeSmet of St. Louis 37-14.

"We're really happy about how the weekend turned out," Whitaker said. "The win Friday was a big one because DeSmet is the defending state runner-up in Missouri, and we didn't expect to win that one by as much as we did."

"We're pleased with the progress we have made and that we are 5-0 right now. We're still making some mistakes that have to be corrected, but we should be able to correct them and have a solid team," Whitaker said.

The Steelers, which have not lost a dual meet since the 1981 season finale with Granite City South, have now won 25 straight dual meets without a tie.

North will put its undefeated streak on the line at Parkway North Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Although the Maroons of Belleville West were able to collect three pins from the Steelers, North was simply too strong for West.

Morris scored the only pin for North when he defeated Dan Porter in 5:06 at 185. However, the Steelers pulled off four major decisions to widen the gap.

Davis defeated Jim Allgire 16-0 at 98, Nemeth defeated Jim Deek 15-4 at 112, Unger defeated Tom Miller 11-1 at 132 and Widel beat Dan Self 18-2 at 155.

Brent McKenney defeated Mickey Southard 9-6 at 119, Mark Whitaker beat Kurt Stamp 7-1 at 138, Dan Whitsell beat Randy Brown 15-10 at 145 and Zimmer defeated Glenn McCoy 11-2 at 167.

"I think Widel is really going to be one of our outstanding wrestlers," Whitaker said. "Davis, Unger and Morris are going to be there too. Zimmer has made a lot of improvement this week too."

COLLINSVILLE 6
Collinsville put itself in the hole by having to forfeit at 98, 126 and 145, and the Steelers were not about to get them out of it.

Heavyweight John Kramer had the quick pin of the match by putting down Bob Burroughs in 29 seconds. John Sleska pinned Eric Brooks in 1:38, Unger pinned Scott Wright in 4:31, and Widel pinned Dan Schlasinger in 2:59.

Nemeth defeated Brian Morhn 15-0, McKenney edged Paul Vogt 5-4, Zimmer nipped Henry Levy 9-8 with a last-second takedown and Morris defeated Chuck Magden 5-0.

Collinsville's only win of the match came when Mel Straub pinned Whitaker in 1:26.

"We're going to be having problems with the line-up soon because Colin's probably going to move back to 105, and we're trying to get Monte Kessler down to 145 for he can come back in the line-up. If he can get him in and move Rod, Mark and Whitsell down, we should be pretty solid," Whitaker said.

Warrior grapplers open with four victories

Something happened Friday to Granite City South's wrestling team that has never happened before — not as long as coach Bill "Red" Schmitt has been the Warrior coach, Edwardsville defeated the Warrior wrestling team.

Last Friday, after the Warriors whipped through both Carbondale and Centralia at the Centralia triangular match, Edwardsville defeated the Warriors 37-21. It was the first time that has happened, Schmitt said. Schmitt, who has coached his Warriors to 24 district championships, begins his 26th year as the Warrior helmsman.

The defeat, he said, was due partly because of the Tigers' abilities, but also because of South's inabilities and inexperience.

"This is probably one of their best teams," Schmitt said, assessing Edwardsville. "But we're down. We don't have the kind of talent yet that we've had in the past. I think it's more of us being down than them being up."

One reason for Schmitt's assessment of the match is his lineup is "weighty" with underclassmen, nine to be exact. Of those nine underclassmen, all but two are freshmen.

In Decatur on Saturday, South found itself in a similar situation. The Warriors edged Stephane-Deatur 35-32 in their first match, walloped Decatur-MacArthur 44-18 in their second match, but lost to Bloomington 34-30 in the final pairing. "We expected them to be tough," Schmitt said. "They're not any stronger than usual. Again, it's a case of our inexperience," Schmitt said.

The Warrior managed to win four of six matches this weekend mostly because of their returning, more experienced wrestlers.

Junior Mark Dowdy was unbeaten at 155 pounds. He finished six matches with five wins and one draw. South's senior Dave Brown was also unbeaten. Brown, wrestling at 185 pounds, won all five of his matches.

Jon Frangoulis, wrestling at 167, also won five matches, dropping but a single match.

South's senior heavyweight, Paul Hitchcock, was the Warriors' winningest wrestler during the weekend. Hitchcock was undefeated in six matches.

Sophomore Jeff Cotter was impressive at 98 pounds. Cotter won five of his six matches.

Granite South Warriors

In all, South competed in 72 matches Friday and Saturday, winning 37. Of those 37 matches, the above five were responsible for 27 victories. "We've got some talent in our upperclassmen," Schmitt said. "But if we're going to win consistently we've got to mature."

The Warriors will go a long way towards getting that maturity the Friday and Saturday as they take on Parkway North on Friday and Francis Howell on Saturday. Francis Howell is the defending Missouri state champion.

Friday's match up against Parkway North is scheduled for 7 p.m. at North, while Saturday's match is 1 p.m. at Francis Howell.

DePew named to All-State grid team

Daren DePew, Granite City North's premiere place kicker, has been named to Chicago Tribune's All-State football team. This weekend, DePew and others named to the elite squad, were honored at a banquet in Champaign.

DePew holds the Illinois High School record for the longest field goal, 54 yards in 1981. Last year, 1981, was his best year, as he totalled up 71 points.

In his three years as a member of the varsity football team, DePew has averaged seven field goals and 15 extra points a season. By the time his varsity football days were over, DePew racked up a total of 180 points.

The 210 pound senior averaged 53.6 yards per kick off in 1982 and 36.7 yards per punt, up nearly a yard over his 1981 figures.

In addition to being named to the All-State team, DePew, last week was named to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's All-District team as a place kicker. Joining DePew on that east side team were teammates defensive back Allen Pregel and offensive lineman John Morris.

In addition to being named to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch's All-District team, DePew was also named to the Post's All-District team, consisting of teams on both sides of the Mississippi River.

All three, DePew, Pregel and Morris, led the Steelers to three of its best years. In 1980, the Steelers were 8-1 on the season. The following year, North was 7-3, before being eliminated in state competition. This year, North finished with a 5-4 record.

Two MHC boxers are Silver Gloves finalists

Two members of the Mexican Honorary Commission's Boxing team are finalists in Silver Gloves competition by virtue of their victories Saturday and Sunday in sectional competition at the Springfield Boys' Club. The victories qualify the two fighters for the Silver Gloves championship bout in January in Glendale.

Jeff Kohler and Richard Mendoza each defeated their opponents during the weekend, qualifying them for the championship bout.

Kohler, 11, decided Thedius Whiteside of Streetside Boxing Club in Springfield in the semifinals Saturday, qualifying him for the championship bout of the Southern Illinois Sectional.

In the sectional finals, Kohler defeated Richard Williams of the Springfield Housing Authority Boxing Club. Kohler competed in the 70-pound sub-novice division.

Mendoza, 14, competing in the 106 pound novice division, picked up a bye in the semifinals, moving him right into the finals.

In the sectional final, a well rested Mendoza wasted little time in disposing of his opponent, knocking out Joseph Peter of the Quincy Boxing Club just 1:10 into the second round.

Two other MHC boxers, Joe Costoff and Terry Davis, lost close decisions in their bouts.

Costoff, competing in the 65 pound sub-novice division, lost a decision to John Spears of Beardstown, while Davis lost a decision to Andre Dean of the East St. Louis Trojan Boxing Club.

A fifth boxer scheduled to fight was Derek Bloodworth, but he was unable to compete Saturday because his upcoming birthday is prior to the January 1 deadline. The deadline was a surprise to MHC coaches.

"I'm very pleased with the kids' performance this weekend," Merce Mendoza, MHC boxing coach said. "They really had good showing. They were aggressive and disciplined," Mendoza said.

SIUE outshoots Indiana, but falls 1-0 in semis

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

BLOOMINGTON — For the second straight year, the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer eleven bowed out of the running in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's division I (large schools) tournament by the margin of one goal.

As in the last (1981) campaign, the team putting the hammer on the SIUE soccer hopes was the Hoosiers of Coach Jerry Vengley's Indiana University here at the new soccer stadium.

Yesterday afternoon the two collegiate soccer giants faced each other for a chance to advance to a shot at a national crown.

After a grueling, bitterly-fought game, the Indiana eleven had its 1-0 victory over Coach Bob Guelker's SIUE Kickers.

But, the unkindest and cruelest cut of all, as far as Cougar soccer fans are concerned, was the identity... as last year... of the Indiana kicker who scored the winning goal against SIUE.

At the 69:30 minute mark, Mark Laxgang, grabbed off a wild rebound shot off the hands of the Cougars' All-American goalkeeper, Ed Gettemeier, and blasted it into the back of the net for the winner.

Laxgang is a 6-0, 175 pound sophomore mid-fielder from Arlington Heights, (Ill.). High School. It was his sixth goal of the season and assured the Hoosiers of their third shot at the whole bundle. They will meet Duke University's Devils next Saturday night at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., for the NCAA division I championship. SIUE won it all in 1979 at Tampa Bay.

Duke defeated the defending NCAA champion University of Connecticut eleven, 2-0, Sunday afternoon in the other semi-final match.

Last year, it was Sam DiBernardo, older brother of the Hoosier's current star, Paul, who scored the goal to beat SIUE, 3-2. By a strange coincidence, the young DiBernardos are both from North Riverside, Ill.

In goal and keeping the Cougars at bay, was another native of Illinois, Chris Peterson of Northbrook. Manuel Gorrity, a fullback starter for Indiana, hales from Wilmette, Ill. Completing the roster of Illinois natives starting for Indiana is Steve Meyer of Springfield.

Of course, some very key starters for the Hoosiers are: Dan King, Mike Hylla, Dave Boncek and Keith Meyer... all from St. Louis.

Indiana will go into its shot at the national crown carrying a 20-1 record and have won its last 17 games in a row. The Cougars finished with a very respectable 15-1 mark.

The statistics of the game demonstrates dramatically just how closely matched the two schools are: SIUE racked up 17 shots on goal while Indiana was credited with 18. The Cougars had the edge in corner kicks, seven to six.

With the wind in their favor, the Cougars seemed to dominate, slightly, of course, in the game's first 45 minutes. However, in the second half, encouraged obviously by the large and noisy, not to say partisan crowd, the Hoosiers controlled the game.

The loss dropped the Cougars to 6-3 in the hard-fought series with Indiana.

One final thought: Would the presence of All-American defender, Tom Groark of SIUE in the Cougar lineup have swung the decision to the eleven from Edwardsville? Also on the SIUE sideline, due to injury, was Greg Fleher. Matt Tracy for Groark and Craig Guempel for Fleher, both players their hearts out. And looked good, too. But, who knows?

The following seniors completed their SIUE careers: Ty Chiwanga, Ed Gettemeier, Tom Groark, Mike Twellman, Dan O'Keefe and Sean Mulqueen.

Sports of all Sorts

Athletes under pressure can produce

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

It's amazing what an athlete can do under pressure.

One of the most astonishing and mind-boggling exhibition of endurance with top performance was turned in by Mike Allaria, now a fast-food store operator in Edwardsville, who star for four years on Coach Roy E. Lee's Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville baseball team around 1971 as a jack-of-all trades: he caught, played third and second base and filled in, in the outfield.

He was so good I've never been able to figure out how the major league baseball scouts passed him up. His batting eye was... and I'm not being extravagant... was as good as Stan Musial's of which there was none better. For possible times at bat, he still holds the Cougars' season record for drawing walks. He consistently hit .300 or better. His throwing arm was more than adequate. And, in four years watching him play for the Cougars, I never saw him make the bad throw to the wrong base.

He was durable almost beyond belief. He proved to me and his teammate and coach, just how durable he was and his amazing capacity to perform under pressure in the spring of 1971 as the Cougars wended their way back North from their annual mid-March hiatus to Florida to hone their skills for the baseball season.

The Cougars lost the first game of a two-day set of games against Ole Miss. Behind the plate in that nine-inning game was our hero, Allaria. The Rebels won.

The next day, Ole Miss was throwing their All-American hurler, a young man who hadn't lost a decision in four years, against the Cougars. This was the same Ole Miss baseball team on which Arlie Manning was a star shortstop. Baseball lost a great and possibly standout star when he opted to sign a pro football quarterback contract.

The next morning, I and the bus driver, Danny Huff, was eating breakfast in the student cafeteria, when Coach Lee set down beside us. He announced that he was, despite his usual practice, going to have Allaria behind the plate again that day... for another long, nine-inning workout.

I looked at Huff and he returned my glance with more than just a raised eyebrow. It was obvious that Huff and I were worried about Mike's ability to catch another grueling nine-inning.

And, in this case, we had an extra reason for our concern. Allaria and Huff had stayed up all night, in fact, until 6 a.m. that morning playing gin rummy.

I looked at Lee left our table, Danny and I discussed the situation. Should we tell the coach or not. We decided, mostly on my recommendation, that we wouldn't say a word. I said to Huff:

"Dan, Mike is tough as rocks... he can do it." After some pro and con, he agreed. In that game with Ole Miss, two amazing things happened: Allaria turned in a superb catching job and John (Champ) Summers batted his way into the Cougars' lineup to stay by blasting a game-winning clutch home-run in the last inning of the game.

Except for two walks which Allaria had drawn from the Ole Miss hurler, the SIUE bats hadn't registered anything resembling a hit. With two outs in the top of the ninth, the third man up... I can't remember who it was... drew a pass. At this point, Coach Lee sent Champ Summers up to pinch-hit.

He blasted the first pitch served up. And, dam it, it looked like a sure out at second base. However, the ball was going so fast that the second baseman literally didn't have reaction time and the ball continued on toward center.

"I'll never forget that hit. Champ's blow left the field at a spot about five to six feet to the left of the 410-foot mark in center. And, the Cougars won it and gained a split in the two-game set. But, the funny thing was: the ball never rose higher than 25 feet in its flight over the fence.

Needless to say, Champ Summers had won a place in the SIUE lineup. And, the dog-tired Allaria, curled his weary bones in the back seat of the bus as we headed for Arkansas. He never moved an inch all the way to Arkansas. A remarkable athlete.

YMCA basketball registration Monday

Sign-ups for the 1982 YBA season at the Tri-City Area YMCA will begin on Dec. 13 at the Tri-City Area YMCA, 2001 Edison Avenue.

YBA basketball is played with nine - 12 person teams. Each player participates in a specified amount of time "so that everyone has the opportunity to play competitive basketball under league conditions," said David L. Femrite, executive director at the YMCA.

During the season each player has an opportunity to judge his or her own game skills as well as personal growth, ability to play team basketball, respect for each other, the referees and the opposition.

"In YBA, we teach respect for an opponent simply because if there is no opponent, there is no game," said Femrite.

No players are "cut" or not allowed to "make" the team. When a boy or girl signs up for the YBA at the YMCA, they are automatically a member of a team.

Parents or guardians are involved in league play as volunteer coaches, team and league managers and in other capacities. Designed by the YMCA, with help from the NBA Players Association, the concept was fully tested before play began ten years ago. In the initial seasons there were more than 300,000 participants in about 600 YMCA's. "YBA was an instant and overwhelming success because too many kids had suffered through being told they 'weren't good enough' to play other sports or coaches wouldn't let marginal players have an opportunity.

"In the YBA, we frankly don't think a 10 year old kid is emotionally ready to accept either the false adulation of a championship victory or the bitter sorrow of defeat. We think basketball is a fun game and it could be played that way," said Femrite.

Since gymnasium space and staff time is limited at the Y, only a limited number of players may sign up for YBA basketball.

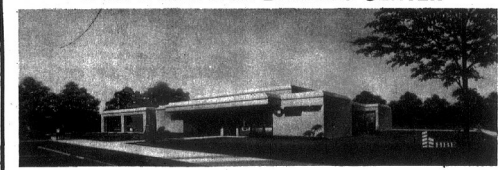

Separate YBA programs for 8 - 12 year old youths will be held in Granite City, Venice, and Madison, this year, beginning in January.

Registration opens Dec. 13, and the final day for registration will be Jan. 4, 1983. Information on registration, fees, adult volunteers and other facets of the YBA may be obtained at the Tri-City Area YMCA, 876-7200.

"When the water used at Shell's Wood River Manufacturing Complex is returned to the river, it meets Shell's high standards, and the government's."

Burt Schneider

Shell salutes Burt Schneider for his concern with waste water treatment and 40 years of service with Shell.

People depend on Shell's petroleum products. But they also depend on a healthy environment.

Shell's Wood River Manufacturing Complex refines about one-fourth of the Shell gasoline produced in the United States, in addition to aviation fuel, motor oil, asphalt and even chemicals for film, herbicides, house paints and more.

It's a big job. But one that can be done with the utmost regard for the environment — with the help of people like Burt Schneider.

Burt's area of expertise is waste water treatment. As an Operations Supervisor, he makes sure the equipment is well maintained and regulations are met. "The waste water at Wood River is treated by biological filtration followed by what is called the activated sludge method. When the water is returned to the Mississippi River, it meets or is better than state and Federal requirements."

Thanks to Burt Schneider, the mighty Mississippi stays clean as it passes through the Wood River Manufacturing Complex.

HURT IN COLLISION AT 23RD, MADISON

Janice E. Smith, 17, of 820 N. 24th St. suffered slight injuries and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after a collision at 4:45 p.m. Saturday at an intersection where the stoplights were on a flashing red cycle.

There was damage to the front of the car of Lillian Baumeier, 2111 Bryan Ave., southbound on Madison Avenue, and the right side of the auto of James Smith, 820 N. 24th, westbound on 23rd Street.

THEFT OF OUTBOARD

Breaking a lock, a thief took a 25-horsepower outboard motor from a fishing boat in the yard of John R. Jones, 2320 Hodges Ave., early Saturday.

State scrapes bottom of its revenue barrel

The available balance in the state's general funds on Nov. 30 was $43 million—the lowest end-of-November figure since 1961, when it was $19.6 million.

This is the lowest month-end figure for any month since March 1976 ($37 million), Comptroller Roland W. Burris said Friday.

The $43 million November balance was realized only through maximum use of the governor's discretionary authority to borrow or transfer $45 million from other state funds, and from an infusion of $100 million in federal aid ahead of the normal schedule. Looking at the first five months of the current fiscal year, the comptroller said total general revenues were $3.291 billion, $174 million or 5.6 percent higher than the same period last year.

Total general funds spending was $3.435 billion, $241 million or 7.5 percent higher than the first five months of last year. Revenues from state sources in the first five months were $2.646 billion, up $90 million or 3.5 percent from the same period in 1981-82. That increase, however, was due primarily to transfers from other state funds.

Income from federal sources was $645 million, $84 million or 15 percent higher than last year.

Burris said the governor has used all of his current discretionary borrowing authority, and little federal aid remains to be received from the second quarter allotment.

"State revenue sources continue to fall below expectations. Therefore, serious cash flow problems are expected unless corrective measures are taken quickly," Burris commented.

Discuss Job Service's offerings for laid off

The Willing Workers of America recently conducted a regular monthly meeting at the Joyce Hall with guest speaker Marcus Crisman, an employer relations representative from the Illinois Job Service.

Crisman told the group about services provided by the Job Service and explained that, due to the economy, an employer's market exists, which has created a greater need for clear, concise resumes, including detailed work history and volunteer work. He also stressed that applications should be filled out neatly and correctly.

Eligibility for the Targeted Jobs Tax Credit program was explained and Crisman suggested that all individuals believing they might qualify may seek information at the Job Service office.

Brenda Derby from the Metropolitan Re-Employment Project explained the YMCA's recreational program for laid-off workers which begins Dec. 13. The new program allows laid-off workers to utilize the facilities during the weekday afternoons and become YMCA members for reduced rates, she said.

Steve Ortiz, Willing Workers president, said he encourages any persons interested in obtaining further information regarding the YMCA's program to attend the next Willing Workers' meeting, which will be Dec. 11, at 10 a.m. at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave.

The guest speaker at the meeting will be Phyllis Whitehead from the Department of Mental Health. She plans to talk about how the holiday season can create additional stress for everyone, particularly those who are unemployed. Interested persons may obtain additional information about the Willing Workers by calling Brenda Derby at 876-2383.

GC gets sewage grant to find Lansdowne, Glen Carbon rates

In a special session last week, the Granite City Council accepted a $28,500 grant which will be used to determine the user rate for all area residents, if either Glen Carbon or the Metro-East Sanitary District Lansdowne users, or both, were added to the Granite City Wastewater Treatment plant.

The rate study will address required staffing, plant modifications and sludge disposal requirements that would be affected by the regional concept. The completed information will be added to an on-going study by the Metro-East Sanitary District to compare the cost of updating its Lansdowne plant to secondary treatment status or routing those users to the Granite City plant.

The Metro-East Sanitary District study being conducted by Horner & Shifrin, Inc., St. Louis, which is expected to release its results early next year. Glen Carbon also must decide whether to join its system with a planned Edwardsville plant or with Granite City's system.

Based on the combined findings, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) will decide which projects to support with 75 percent grant fundings.

The Granite City grant

already has been approved by the IEPA, which originally suggested the study after a discussion in Springfield with Granite City officials. At that talk, Mayor Paul Schuler indicated the city's willingness to accept both Glen Carbon and Lansdowne users in an attempt to offer a more cost-effective system to each.

The city also is preparing to conduct a study by GCS Group Engineers, Clark Dietz Division, Urbana, Ill., to decide the proper staffing number for Granite City's current operations. The study is intended to assist officials here in immediately adjusting its own users rates to pay for neglected bond reserve accounts and expected repairs at the plant.

The latest IEPA grant to the city amends an original June 6, 1980, city and state grant agreement for other architectural and engineering fees.

Y sponsors sessions

The Tri-City Area YMCA has recently completed its first session of "The Y's Way to a Healthy Back." The participants were pleased with the results, and one person said "The class was an answer to a prayer."

The class is a supervised exercise program for people who suffer back discomfort. The exercises used in the class emphasize relaxation, gentle muscle stretching, and mild muscle toning.

Over 900 YMCA's are using this program with gratifying results. More than 80 percent of the participants in these programs report relief or elimination of back discomfort.

The next scheduled session is Jan. 10 to Feb. 16, 1983... Monday and Wednesday nights from 7 to 7:45 p.m.

Colonial Bank OKs a third dividend

At its November meeting of the Board of Directors of Colonial Bank of Granite City, the board voted to declare dividend number three of $1 per share. The dividend will be paid on Dec. 15, 1982 to stockholders of record December 1, 1982.

Donald E. Van Horn, president, expressed his appreciation to the stockholders, depositors and community for their support during the year. He stated the bank's growth and income, thus far in 1982, has exceeded projections.

Van Horn suggested that anyone interested in taking advantage of the tax shelter (tax free interest) offered under the All Savers Certificate program should do so prior to the expiration of the law on Dec. 31. Colonial Bank's Individual Retirement Account program also offers a good tax advantage and security at time of retirement.

Proclaim Awareness Week

President Reagan has signed legislation to proclaim the week of Dec. 12 to 18 as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week.

Representatives of 70 national organizations recently met to determine activities that would help promote Awareness Week. A fact sheet concerning drunk driving also was prepared by the representatives.

SUGGESTED ACTIVITIES
According to the governor, drivers and passengers should fasten their seat belts every time they get into a vehicle. Safety belts are the greatest protection against drunk and drugged drivers, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Safety Administration. Suspicious driving should be reported to the police, especially on weekends. This driving includes weaving, straying off the road, erratic braking, and other signs. CBers are encouraged to report the same.

Persons hosting parties should not be over generous. It is recommended that hosts provide plenty of hearty food and stop serving drinks early. Tipsy drivers should be offered a ride home or invited to spend the night. "Friends don't let friends drive drunk," is a good slogan, it is suggested.

It should be remembered that even prescription drugs impair driving ability, especially antihistamines, tranquilizers or any medication containing a narcotic. Mixing alcohol and drugs is particularly dangerous. For example, taking one antihistamine with one drink doubles the impairment effect of both.

Letters should be sent to various media encouraging the publication of articles related to Awareness Week and its activities.

The designated driver concept, where one licensed driver in a group of merry-makers refrains from drinking in order to ensure the entire group's safe drive home, should be encouraged.

Light-in-the-window campaigns are a suggestion for Awareness Week as are "headlights on while driving during the day" campaigns.

Local law enforcement agencies can be urged by citizens to conduct open houses for the community and to utilize well-publicized, selective enforcement blitzes at high-risk times and places.

Use of alternative transportation systems, such as dial-a-ride, designated drivers and taxicabs should be promoted.

Bar tenders should be urged to send over-imbibers home by one of the alternative transportation systems.

Local officials can be petitioned to establish a task force to study the driving under the influence (DUI) of intoxicating liquor or drugs problem and recommend solutions.

Local school administrators should be urged to plan promotional activities at assemblies, dances, pep rallies and athletic events and to publicize local dial-a-ride programs.

DRUNK DRIVING FACTS
A blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of 10 percent or greater is the level at which a driver is considered legally intoxicated in most states.

Approximately 55 percent of fatal crashes involve a driver who has been drinking.

In single-vehicle crashes, where responsibility is apparent, between 60 and 75 percent of dead drivers have BACs greater than 10 percent.

The average BAC of drivers arrested for drunk driving is approximately 20 percent, double the level for presumed intoxication.

During the past 10 years, highway deaths involving alcohol have averaged 55,000 per year and 1.25 million Americans have lost their lives in alcohol-related crashes in the last decade.

A conservative estimate of the total economic cost of drunk driving is between 5 and 6 billion dollars a year, authorities believe.

PLENTY OF WATER. An adequate supply of water is no problem this week at the Illinois-American Water Co. pumping station on Chouteau Island, where the danger is water flooding the pumping equipment. Flood water, expected to crest Tuesday, may exceed the record level of 1973 on the islands. Sandbagging inside the pumping station began Saturday, but a spokesman said the station remained in operation throughout the 1973 flooding and is expected to do so again this year.

4th-Madison crash injures 3 persons

Three injured persons were taken in ambulances to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after a collision in Madison at 7:20 p.m. Thursday.

TOPPING LEVEE, water pours over the main levee protecting Chouteau Island yesterday afternoon, starting to cover the farm land at the bottom. Sandbagging operations to try and save Chouteau and Gabaret islands, and the homes on them, began a short time later, but authorities are unsure whether they will be able to halt the water when it reaches its crest Tuesday.

Weather condition number is offered by state police

Captain Laimutis A. Nargelenas, commander, Illinois State Police of District 11 in Maryville, advises that special weather phones, located at all state police headquarters, will again be utilized to provide the public with current Illinois highway conditions.

This service is provided now through April 15, each year. The pre-recorded report is updated at 5 a.m., 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and 9 p.m., or more frequently if weather or road conditions change.

The number for this area weather phone is: 618-345-1330. Nargelenas stresses the importance of dialing the weather phone for information on highway conditions. If persons get a busy signal they should wait a few minutes and dial again. It is imperative that the emergency police lines be kept open during times of emergencies. The state police will notify local radio and television stations when extreme weather or highway conditions exist.

State funding 2-5ths of public school costs

The amount of money the state spends on elementary and secondary education in Illinois has almost doubled in the last decade, but the state's portion is dropping and local taxes are paying more than half of the school costs, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reports.

Burris said current state appropriations for elementary and secondary schools for fiscal 1983, down slightly from the two previous fiscal years, are $2,100,000, or 1.9 times the $1,095,000,000 appropriated in fiscal 1973 a decade ago.

Local taxes are providing about 51 percent of local school costs, while the state pays approximately 40 percent. The balance of nine percent is drawn from federal revenues.

The comptroller's regular monthly fiscal report takes a detailed look at the funding of elementary and secondary education in Illinois over the last 10 years.

The Illinois economic picture in another section of the report focuses on the Illinois coal industry and finds little hope for any immediate economic recovery.

The regular report on the state's fiscal health shows that one-third of the way into fiscal 1983, the state spent $95 million more than its income. At the end of October, the state's balances in all funds were down $130 million or 11.6 percent from the same period last year.

General funds — appropriations to the state Board of Education now represent one-fourth (25.6 percent) of the general funds spending for all state programs.

Of the current appropriation of $2,100 billion, two-thirds of that amount — $1,418 billion (67.5 percent) — goes to 1,010 school districts.

That $1.418 billion in aid is almost 1.8 times the $802 million appropriated for this purpose in 1973.

Appropriations for teachers' retirement (downstate and Chicago area) currently $229 million, up $112 million or 96 percent over 1973.

A trend to more fully fund the retirement systems was interrupted last year when the governor reduced the requested appropriation from $300 million to $186 million.

For over 35 years, the annual trend in public school enrollment was upward, peaking in the 1971-72 school year at 2,373,650 students, Burris noted. Since that time, enrollments steadily declined to 1,907,000 pupils in the 1981-82 school year, a drop of 466,570 students or 19.7 percent.

The forecast: Continued decline through this decade, with a projected 1989-90 public school enrollment of 1,747,891. That would be a drop of 629,768 or 26.4 percent from the peak 1971-72 school year.

It is estimated that 80 to 85 percent of the enrollment decline is tied to a falling Illinois birthrate. The rate is expected to increase slightly in the first half of the 1980s, and then stabilize and gradually decline again in the second half of the decade.

The proportion of Illinois students attending non-public schools (since mid-1970) has increased only slightly, from 14 percent to 15 percent.

Along with declining enrollments, the number of public school teachers has tumbled as well.

Statewide, teachers decreased to 88,385 in the 1981-82 school year, a decline of 12,685 teachers or 13 percent from the 101,070 in the school year of 1975-76.

The number of downstate teachers was thinned by 8,872 (10.8 percent), while the number of Chicago teachers fell 4,013 or 19.1 percent in that period.

School principals have similarly declined from 3,669 in 1975-76 to 3,435 in 1981-82, a drop of 234 principals (six percent).

The number of school administrators increased by 55 or 2.2 percent to 2,541 in the same period.

In the 1975-76 school year, there was one administrator-principal for every 16.4 teachers. In 1981-82, there was one administrator-principal for every 14.8 teachers.

Looking at the elementary and secondary system from a perspective of spending per pupil, it breaks out this way for the 1980-81 school year:

Total expenditures per pupil were $3,062, up $1,733 (56 percent) over the $1,329 spent per pupil in 1971-72, about a decade ago.

The total spending per pupil for instruction was $1,686 (85 percent of the per pupil total), up $932 per pupil or over 2.2 times the comparable spending of $754 in 1971-72.

The per pupil spending for operations, maintenance, and fixed charges was $735 (34 percent of total per pupil expenditures), an increase of $482 or almost triple the $253 spent for these functions in 1971-72.

Effects of nuclear war will be shown

The Plaza Palisades Group of the Sierra Club is urging area residents to learn of the implications of nuclear warfare through its Dec. 13 program by Professor David A. Cornell of Principia College. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 13, at the First Presbyterian Church, 4th and Albee streets, Alton.

There will be slide photographs of men showing the range of destruction of potential blasts in the St. Louis area and motion pictures of typical houses located on the Nevada test site as they encountered radiation flash and the shock wave impact from nuclear detonations.

Dr. Cornell, professor of physics at Principia College, is a retiring member of the Jersey County Board.

Tom Holzerlein, Sierra program chairman, has seen Dr. Cornell's program twice and says, "Words can hardly overstate nuclear blast effects, but Dr. Cornell's program is not a horror story of human suffering."

"Only mannequins are present in the buildings. But nuclear effects on buildings are so dramatic that little imagination is required to visualize the impact or occupants in a wartime setting."

"Every American should be aware of the character of this genre of mass destruction, and we all share in the responsibility for decisions regarding its use."

ARREST AT TAVERN

Kevin R. Krug, 24, of 2406 Illinois Ave. was charged with disorderly conduct last week at the El Gato tavern, where police said he responded with loud profanity when they sought to persuade him not to operate a motorcycle after drinking.

Swing Choir entertains AARP business session

Chapter 1340 of the American Association of Retired Persons was entertained by the Granite City High School South's Southern Express Swing Choir at the chapter's November meeting in the GC Township Hall. The chapter conducted a business meeting, but took a recess to enjoy the music when the chorus arrived. The regular meeting was resumed when the chorus concluded its program.

Dee Klesh of the program committee introduced Mary Ann Bright, choir director, who introduced the singers. Mrs. Bright emphasized that the choir is a non-credit activity and that the members practice and perform on their own time. The chapter gave them a standing ovation.

Ruth Allen, chapter president, then welcomed members and visitors. Ruby Corbett gave the prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. Guests included Warren and Mary Linsing, of Downey Calif., and Mary Godwin.

Because Evelyn Fildes, chapter secretary, was ill, Elina Hoover read the October minutes. Juanita Crawley gave the financial report. Elizabeth McCoy reported a total of 104 new members this year. She introduced the October new members: Bess Weiss, Leonard and Helen Miller, Raymond and Ruth Hughes, Helen and James Lipchik and June Brisk.

Irene Kadanec gave the community service report. She spoke on the Rules of the Road courses which are conducted every month at the center, taught by Edgar Paddock and Clyde Myers. She also reported that the board has recommended donations of $100 each to Mobile Meals, the Red Cross and the Tree of Lights. The recommendations were approved.

Marie Baker sent many cards to hospitalized members. Elina Hoover told the group that the Tax-Aide program still needs more local counselors. She also told of a new law to require withholding from pensions. To those with pensions low enough that no tax will be paid, she advised marking documents. "Do not withhold," she then invited anyone who must pay the tax to contact her if they have questions.

Vernice Walter read the standing rules to be adopted for next year. The rules were discussed.

Ruby Corbett gave the nominating committee report. Officers for next year include: Ruth Allen, president; Clyde Myers, vice president; Vernice Walter, secretary; and Juanita Crawley, treasurer.

Board members for next year are: Vina Law, Pauline Cox, Cleveland Cox, Ruth Jensen, Mike Lombardi, Helen Berkechi, Irene Kadanec, William Alin, Elizabeth McCoy and Reta Cotter.

The nominating committee for 1983 is: Nick Lucido, Tom Crawley, Gertrude Boskey, Elina Hoover and Martin Schulte.

The entire slate was elected as presented. An announcement was made that the bazaar to be conducted by the Senior Council at the center will be Dec. 17.

After the business session, refreshments were served and attendance prizes were given to Art Lindner, Ann Kiddle, Bonnie Fisher, Ted Auferheide, Helen Bertac

Gift wrapping presented by women's club

The Madison County Christian Women's Club will feature "Gift Wrapping on a Shoestring" at its "Sounds of Christmas Luncheon," Tuesday, Dec. 14, at noon. The two-hour luncheon program will be held at Randy's Restaurant in Troy.

Janet Knobloch from Collinsville will show us how to gift wrap on a shoestring as she presents unique and low-cost ideas for making your gifts special.

Special music for the occasion will be presented by the Strings of Greenville College.

Mrs. Mary Bohn will be the guest inspirational speaker. Mrs. Bohn is from Scott Air Force Base, a homemaker and wife of a career Air Force officer.

The Madison County Christian Women's Club is part of an international organization which has over 2,000 similar groups across the North American continent.

A free nursery for preschoolers will be provided at the Troy Motor Inn, located right next door to Randy's Restaurant. Reservations for the luncheon are essential and can be made by calling Joann 667-2995, Bonnie 288-7172, or Betty 654-6091 by noon, Friday, Dec. 10th.

Police Sgt. John Apperson testified that, when he arrived at the scene, he found Fisher calmly drinking a beer with Hanner's body lying not far from his feet.

Fisher ordered another drink. Howell and the Hanners apparently were involved in a dispute at the time of the shooting. Fisher pleaded guilty Oct. 19 to voluntary manslaughter and two counts of armed violence in exchange for having a murder charge dismissed.

Howell, who also was injured during the incident, testified at the sentencing hearing in Edwardsville that he believed Fisher should not be sentenced to jail. Howell apparently was shot accidentally.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS
By RUSS WALKER

Clear or pale blue zircons resemble diamonds, having diamond-like brilliance and fire. Zircon is also available in other gorgeous colors . . . red, blue, green and gold. It's a beautiful stone and not too expensive.

Those born in December enjoy the zircon as their birthstone but anyone will thrill to such a gift.

Release $6 million for Kilgas turbine

The Illinois Energy Resources Commission has approved the expenditure of $6 million from the State's Coal Development fund for the $36 million Allis-Chalmers Kilgas combustion turbine project near East Alton. The Kilgas plant will convert Illinois coal into a clean gas which will fire a 50 megawatt boiler at Illinois Power's Woodstock River Station. Operation of the plant is scheduled to begin next summer.

Vadalabene stated that the turbine demonstration that has just been approved by the commission will extend the applicability of gasification to the growing utility demand for combined cycle generating plants.

General Electric Corp., a world leader in combustion turbine technology, will design the turbine for the demonstration.

If the demonstration proves successful, it is expected, the fully integrated Kilgas combustion turbine technology will be available for commercial use by the turn of the decade.

"We are confident that the project will prove to be successful," Vadalabene said. "Because we are especially pleased to have such a large corporation as Allis-Chalmers involved in developing this new technology for Illinois coal."

It is vital that government and business join forces in solving the sulfur problem in Illinois coal.

Because this turbine will use high sulfur Illinois coal, the cost of generating electricity should be significantly lower than for coal fired plants, but also a direct means of helping to lower the costs of electricity to the people of Illinois," Vadalabene said.

Approximately 75 persons will be employed during the operations program.

Fear flooding

Few houses on the island were without a truck. A swarm of people loading furniture, rollers, washers and dryers and other items for a hasty departure.

Trucks bearing hay, lumber, propane gas tanks, and equipment, livestock and other belongings filled the bridge eastbound all day, passing a parade of empty trucks headed back onto the island for another load.

Thirty-eight families were evacuated from permanent homes and some others had to leave their mobile homes behind. One mobile home was being pulled out when its left wheels sank into the mud near the canal levee and efforts to free it were unsuccessful. It was abandoned for the night.

The Red Cross found temporary housing at the Granite City Army Installation for those who may be without shelter, but none of the evacuated families found it necessary, preferring to stay with friends or relatives. There was room for 60 to 80 persons in buildings 192 and 193 and in the gymnasium of the Army Installation. Also, storage buildings six on the former post were made available for those who needed a place to store what they had saved from the island. Many took advantage of that offer.

A covered storage area also was available for temporary placement of heavy farm machinery, but it appeared that many of the island residents were utilizing that heavy machinery to pull mobile homes from the mud and to haul personal belongings, so little equipment went to the shelter.

Crews first were called out to sandbag low parts of the levee at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, but a decision then was made that the river was going to rise too high for sandbags to do any good and the effort was called off.

At 11 a.m. Sunday, Major Fred Bright announced that sandbagging would begin about noon. The Venice Highway Department and Chouteau Township were donating the trucks, bags and sand and the Granite City Auxiliary Police and Wood River Township Emergency Corps had agreed to provide manpower for the work.

Prior to that, the only sandbagging on the island had been inside the Illinois-American Water Co.'s pumping station on the western side of the island. Water company personnel equipped to protect the pumping equipment.

Asked what would happen if the pumping station should flood, a spokesman said it was not likely. "In 1973, we never stopped pumping," he said of the last flood.

There was little aid available on and around the island, should the flood have come. The Red Cross, Salvation Army, Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps, and sheriff's department were the only groups that stood by throughout the entire ordeal, keeping the area secure and standing ready to respond if the disaster of 1973 was to repeat itself.

As of Saturday, several residents seemed certain that the flood of 1973 would be slight in comparison. With more rain in the forecast, residents planned to work steadily to remove belongings in the event of the worse. Although Sunday brought a relieved attitude because the river had not yet flooded the area, Army Installation personnel and other volunteer departments were still prepared to assist the residents.

Clifford Wilkinson, son of Richard Wilkinson, a Chouteau levee and drainage commissioner, worked with two other men Saturday to haul his parents' belongings to the Army Installation.

"Ain't no doubt about it. It's going over (the levees)," Wilkinson said of the river as he removed cars and furniture belonging to his parents from a rental truck. Wilkinson added that the fear of the levee will break in the same spot as in 1973, but are, instead, fearful that several other areas might break.

As Wilkinson and his friends hastily worked to unload the truck, Army Installation personnel worked to keep track of which items belonged to which residents. Although itemized inventories will be provided for each family utilizing the storage facility was given a designated area in which to store its items.

Deputy Commander Ken Burke said the installation received word Friday night that help was needed in the form of shelter and storage space. Maj. Sam Hatton, who was working with Burke Saturday evening, said that help will be provided for residents, "until the water goes down."

"We're screening who comes in," Burke said. The people he said most residents he talked with mentioned 1973 in their conversations.

Burke said he did not think any other parts of the area were in imminent danger of being flooded. "It would take another three or four heavy inches (of rain)," he predicted.

While the Army Installation monitored the situation there, others kept check near the Chouteau Island entrance. With heavy flooding in nearby areas of Missouri, the Salvation Army found itself without a canteen to supply workers with food, but Yungke's Pharmacy in Alton, provided an adequate facility for the volunteers to work with.

Mrs. Capt. John Remick, whose husband is in charge of the Salvation Army office in Alton, said the stream of people in an out of the canteen had "been steady."

Most of those utilizing the canteen, she said, were volunteer workers who were standing by, should disaster strike.

About 15 members of the Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps were on hand with generators, trucks, and other pumping equipment, should the area begin to flood or the levee break. "The main thing is to be standing by, ready to act, if it does break," said Owen Tavernier, commander of the Corps. Most people he said, were either using their own trucks, or had borrowed or rented trucks to move their belongings, but a couple of Civil Defense trucks also were being utilized.

Deputies from the Madison County Sheriff's Department carefully screened the area in three-man shifts throughout the weekend. Sgt. John Novich said he had been driving off Chouteau in 1973. It seems like it was a lot worse then," he said.

A primary concern of the department was to keep the curious away, he said. "We don't want people had arrived at the area to speculate, but Novich said, "as word gets out" there will be more curiosity seekers to keep from the area.

"People tend to come out more in the daylight. We'll be here around the clock," he added. Novich said the sheriff's department has no definite plans, aside from screening the area and assisting the residents. "It all depends on what happens. We're waiting for the river to crest," he said.

At residents evacuated, wildlife scampers around the area was startled by a helicopter Sunday. Several herds of deer were noticed on farmland, driven from the woods by the water. The conservation department was said to be making plans to try and relocate the deer.

At least two families reportedly were going to stay on the island Sunday as the anticipated time of flooding was delayed even more. As heavy rains continued to hit the area, most residents prepared to wait "on dry land" until they are certain the waters are not coming over the island's levees.

Residents of the Grenzer Homes area in Madison said that Thursday night's rainstorm overwhelmed storm sewers near there and flooded the eastern Grenzer parking lot, soaking the interior carpet of one vehicle.

That night's storm, which included strong winds, caused $300,000 damage at the Kilgus plant construction site in East Alton. The boom atop a 200-foot crane slammed into the partly-completed building.

At 3:45 p.m. Friday, with an auto stalled in the street due to deep water, Mark Babbs, 19, of 106 Briarhaven said he steered around the flooded car and drove across the front lawns of the Windsor family, 218 Briarcliff, and the Wiesse family, 218 Briarcliff. He agreed to repair ruts in the two yards after the water receded.

Although the heavy rain caused inconvenience, Quad-City's eyeing their December calendar noted that colder temperatures during the past week might have led to more than a foot of snow, instead of nearly a half-foot of rain. Below-freezing weather is expected tonight, but the forecast is for clear skies this week.

High water has closed the southbound-traffic Route 67 bridge between Alton and Missouri but both directions of traffic are being routed across the bridge which normally accommodates northbound vehicles.

Portions of the Great River Road north of Grafton have been closed due to the high level of the Illinois River.

A woman, 46, drowned when her auto was swept off the road and into 10 feet of water in the rain-swollen Birch Creek on the Roodhouse-Scottville road in Greene County. She was Dorothy Retherford of Jacksonville.

Clean-up work is continuing at New Baden, where mobile homes and apartments were struck by a tornado at 9:10 p.m. Thursday, 20 minutes after the brunt of the massive storm passed through the Quad-City area. Those trying to aid the Clinton County victims were hampered by the heavy rain. The entire county was declared a disaster area by Gov. James R. Thompson.

At least five storm-related deaths occurred in Illinois, including two at New Baden, where 100 persons were injured and damage totaled $7,500,000. The victims were Della Smalle, 80, and Air Force Technical Sergeant George D. Williams, 35. Twelve other deaths were found in the wreckage of mobile homes.

Tornadoes, unusual for December, also struck Arkansas and Missouri on Thursday night. Numerous areas were flooded, and strong winds and approaching crests in this area, currently expected tomorrow or Wednesday, already are being compared with the devastating flood of 1973.

Some believe this year's flood level in the local metropolitan area may reach within a foot or two of the record statistics of 1973.

To minimize flooding along the Mississippi River north of Alton, all gates of Dam 26 at Alton were opened wide Saturday, resulting in "open river" conditions.

The Missouri River, for 130 miles from Jefferson City to St. Charles, has been closed to navigation. The Army Corps of Engineers cited the high water level and strong currents.

Thursday's violent storms were touched off by a cold front moving eastward. It bumped into an unusually warm air that had been setting early-december heat records across the Midwest.

For other non-moving violations, which are a minimum fine of $10 and maximum fine of $100. Fines paid within 24 hours will be $10, rising to $15 after that time.

Veizer said the Granite City Police Department has received numerous complaints from handicapped persons concerning the illegal use of specially-marked parking places.

Public hearing on Venice Senior Center

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record

Whether or not certain funds available to the City of Venice should be utilized to construct a proposed community center for Venice senior citizens will be explored at a public hearing at 6 this evening in the council chambers at the Venice City Hall.

Some opposition to the center has sur-posed recently in the community, with opponents to the plan believing that funds should be earmarked for general improvements within the city, such as street repairs and sewers, it was learned.

The amount of money available to Venice includes $109,000 in Community Development funds and a possible block grant of $73,000 from state sources. Mayor Tyrone Echols stressed at last week's meeting of the Venice City Council the final decision on whether a senior center will be built rests with the people of Venice.

He urged all residents to attend tonight's public hearing to provide input into the proposal.

The 1982 DeMolay Sweetheart was crowned and presented the DeMolay Sweetheart Pin by Lea Ann Baker, the retiring Sweetheart. For the crowning procession, Lea Ann Baker was escorted by Jimmy K. Stuart, Miss Jones by Keith Payne, Miss Gibbons by Neal Mize and Miss Segedy by Robert Isham.

Music for the dance was under the direction of "Dad" Dwayne Pritchett and the DeMolay Mothers' Club served refreshments. Glenda Weckman, Collinsville's Ascalon Chapter's DeMolay Sweetheart, was a guest of honor.

Air Force has openings for prior USAF members

The Air Force Recruiting Service has announced that it has available openings for former Air Force members. "This comes as good news to the hundreds who, in recent months, have been turned away for lack of available positions in the Prior Service Program," a spokesman said.

All prior Air Force members who are now contemplating or have already talked to Air Force recruiters in recent months to attempt to re-enter the Air Force, are being urged to contact their nearest Air Force recruiter to begin process.

"The positions are available, but they are going fast," says Lieutenant Colonel Jeffrey Bell, commander of Air Force Recruiting Headquarters.

Council to review handicapped parking

A law intended to discourage drivers from the unnecessary use of both public and private parking places reserved for the handicapped will be considered by the Granite City Council Tuesday.

Chief of Police Ronald Veltzer said the proposed law is an amendment to an ordinance currently prohibiting illegal parking in certain areas and would give the city "blanket" enforcement in private parking lots, as well. Authority for such an amendment was made possible by updated state laws affecting the handicapped, he said.

The upcoming ordinance would prohibit any motor vehicle not bearing registration plates or decals issued to a physically handicapped persons, or to a disabled veteran, to use any parking place reserved for the handicapped. Vehicles could be removed to other parking spaces or garages.

Fines would be the same as those for other non-moving violations, which are a minimum fine of $10 and maximum fine of $100. Fines paid within 24 hours will be $10, rising to $15 after that time.

Veizer said the Granite City Police Department has received numerous complaints from handicapped persons concerning the illegal use of specially-marked parking places.

Printing inks really a varnish
 Printing inks are really a varnish consisting of fluid ingredients or vehicles, solid ingredients or pigments, and additives. The vehicle, a resin dissolved in solvents, acts as a binder to affix the pigment, or coloring, to the printed surface.
 Additives such as waxes, driers, lubricants and gums impart special characteristics to inks.

You are so lucky to be living inside of your beautiful self. What do you mean by that? Your body - the shell that houses the electromagnetic current that is you - is very pleasing to the eye, and will make life easier for you. Why is that? People who are good looking have a stronger self-image, more confidence, and are treated better by friends and strangers alike. I suppose there is truth in that. An example of that truth is this - statistics show that in our court trial system, people who are beautiful tend to get more favorable verdicts than those who are ugly. All of this is unfortunate because many, many ugly people are beautiful on the inside. Why don't we use a slogan to popularize this idea? What slogan? "Ugly is beautiful!"

Cancer is often curable. The fear of cancer is often fatal.

If you're afraid of cancer... you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

Broyles can't stand sound of silence

By DON FREEMAN

HOLLYWOOD — As Jimmy Cannon used to say, Nobody Asked Me, But: Any candidate who willfully uses a mean-spirited TV commercial should be required by law to appear on screen and voice full responsibility for its content. The movie stars should go back to acting and stop trying to influence voters with their silky pitches on behalf of politicians who borrow somebody else's fame.

Gen. Robert E. Lee, the story goes, was once offered $50,000 to become president of an insurance company. Lee asked what he would be required to do to earn his salary. "Nothing," he was told. "We just want to use your name." To which Lee replied: "My name is not for sale."

When she's on a roll, popping lines on the "Tonight" show, there's no sharper comedienne than Joan Rivers.

Bet me that the driver of the next pickup truck you see on the freeway is violating the speed laws — and the laws of common courtesy.

Why don't the television sportscasters shut up and let the picture tell the story? How can they have forgotten the lesson of Don Ohlmeyer's "silent game" so soon? Tony Kubek was the biggest offender with his non-stop chatter in the World Series. And is it chiseled in marble that Frank Broyles has got to comment on every single play on ABC's college football?

I lament the decline of sports cartooning, a form of journalism born long ago with Tad Dorgan and died apparently with the great Willard Mullin. Except for Bill Gallo on The New York Daily News, the species seems to be just about extinct, which is our loss.

The moguls at the networks should be compelled to read Barbara Tuchman's essay on "Quality" and commit to memory the following: "Quality is achieving or reaching for the highest standard as against being satisfied with the sloppy or fraudulent. It is honesty of purpose as against catering to cheap or sensational sentiment."

Jockeys participate in sporting events but they can no more be called athletes than the guys who drive racing cars.

"Cheers," which is set in a Boston bar, and the Bob Newhart series, whose locale is a country inn in Vermont, form an entry as the best-written, funniest and most innovative of the season's new comedy shows. When did New England get funny?

Doctors who appear regularly on TV make me wonder if they truly want to advise people on their ills or should they be dismissed as shameless publicity seekers?

When did the sporty dressers stop wearing brown-and-white, wingtip shoes in the summer?

For all the rah-rah fun of the Saturday games, the NFL strike proved the point: College football is "The Waltons," pro football is "Dynasty."

I'm still searching for the perfect malted milk as they used to be at Walgreen's — not too thick, not too thin, and with a dab of whipped cream on the glass. And they even used to toss in a small package of two cookies on the side.

John McEnroe's boorish manners are made light of in his razor-blade commercials, in which the message is made clear to the kids — emulate the atrocious behavior of this tennis brat and you, too, can be on TV.

I like chestnuts roasting on an open fire but they always smell better than they taste.

Make it 8 to 5 that when the former Mrs. Frank Furillo turns up each week on "Hill Street Blues," the action will slow to a walk.

Mime is a dumb, witless form of entertainment.

I'll take Burl Ives, and the rest of the folk-singers you can have. Brendan Behan said it best. The Irish playwright once came to Tijuana to see his first bullfight. It turned out to be a dreadful afternoon — the matadors were cowardly, the bulls dedicated to pacifism. As the cushions sailed overhead, hurled onto the ring by the disgruntled spectators, Behan was asked how he liked the bullfight. "It could have been worse," Behan said. "It could have been folk-singing."

A TV treat to look forward to

By NANCY ANDERSON

NEW YORK — "Nicholas Nickleby," a long, long, sumptuous staging of a serialized story Charles Dickens wrote when he was only 26, came first to the theater and now it comes to television, because Britain's Royal Shakespeare Company was in a pinch.

If the respected company hadn't been strapped for funds, Trevor Nunn and John Caird might never have considered putting together a production which is almost nine hours long and employs 39 actors, all but one performing multiple roles.

But hard times demanded hard choices which in due course inspired perhaps the most audacious gamble in theater history, a play longer than many a television mini-series.

Though audiences had to see the play in two sittings, it was hugely successful in London; still New York theater professionals weren't sure it would go well in the Big Apple.

Not only might such a long play become wearisome to New Yorkers, tickets would cost $100 each. So the question arose: Would anyone pay that kind of money to see that kind of a show?

The answer became a resounding, "Yes." The entire New York run was a sell-out while Tonys showered "Nicholas Nickleby" like refreshing rain.

Now "Nicholas Nickleby" has been taped for television and will be aired

Jan. 10 through Jan. 13 on the Mobil Showcase Network. The taping took place over an eight-week period at London's famous Old Vic with the Royal Shakespeare Company performing the 150 parts.

During a recent New York visit, Nunn told how "Nicholas Nickleby" was chosen to become the salvation of the impoverished Royal Shakespeare Company.

Artistic director of the Royal Shakespeare Company, he went to Russia in 1977 on a cultural visit during which he encountered a Russian company preparing a production of "Pickwick Papers." Dickens, he learned, was popular stage fare in the Soviet Union.

Returning to England, he was soon faced with the sad fact that the Royal Shakespeare Company, which had intended to produce five plays for the 1980 season, would have money enough for only one.

That being the case, he felt that the one play should require so large a cast that it could use all the RSC players. And where, he thought to himself, are more characters found than in a Dickens novel?

Nunn asked John Caird, who was to co-direct the stage production of "Nicholas Nickleby" with him, to help him read through the works of Dickens in search of the best novel to convert into a play.

"We had to keep a classical company together with only one work," Nunn recollects. "It was a case of now or never, because the Royal Shakespeare Company was about to collapse."

In making their choice, Nunn and Caird "tried to avoid novels which had already been adapted for the stage or which had already become very famous films."

They finally settled on "Nickleby," because, "It is socially exciting Nicholas contacted every level of society."

Only Roger Rees, in the demanding title role, played a single part in the marathon production on stage and on camera.

Most of the other performers changed costumes and identities repeatedly. Lila Kaye ("Mama Malone" in a CBS series of that name which has been shelved) played both a villainess and a coquette, while Christopher Raven-scroft enacted a dozen roles, including a "gent" and a "wall."

Asked whether they intend to stage other Dickens novels, Caird and Nunn joke, "We're going to do every English novel."

When "Nicholas Nickleby" was running at $100 a ticket in New York, a bookstore, with a window full of paperback copies of the work priced at $2.50 each, advertised, "Save $97.50."

Now, through television, you can save even more.

If you tune to the Mobil Showcase Network Jan. 10 through 13, you can enjoy the treat for the simple investment of your time.
